HESS REPORTED DIVULGING VITAL SECRETS

British Military Officers Said to be Questioning Fugitive

GERMANS WARNED AGAINST LISTENING TO FOREIGN BROADCASTS

Rudolf Hess, the escaped Nazi deputy fuhrer, was described by the British radio today as talking and writing "words which will make the German high command sweat"—the first semi-official intimation that he may already have divulged vital German military secrets.

British military intelligence officers were reported questioning the No. 3 Nazi closely.

Simultaneously, the government-controlled BBC began a barrage of 10 broadcasts a day to Germany on the Hess affair.

The London Daily Mail said that in preliminary conversations, Hess had "indicated his personal disgust with the Nazi party" and told of mounting tension among Adolf Hitler's party chieftains.

Authorized quarters in Berlin said documents left behind by Hess indicated he planned to visit the Duke of Hamilton in Glasgow in an effort to bring about peace.

"Hess had the fixed idea that he was a sort of Messiah by whom a spectacular individual gesture could bring about a termination of hostilities," a Nazi spokesman said.

The spokesman declared that Hess had no intention of approaching Prime Minister Churchill or other British government leaders, but that he had "a crazy notion" that a pacifist group could end the war.

"Hess did not see as a traitor," the spokesman asserted.

Nazi officials had previously declared that Germany would not accept any peace offer except on German terms.

In the Reich itself, Germans received an oblique warning against listening to foreign broadcasts on the strange case.

Even as the British radio flooded the air-waves with Hess stories in Czech, Spanish, Norwegian, French, German and other languages, DNB, the official German News Agency, published a list of seven recent cases in which persons were sentenced to four to six-years terms for tuning-in their radios on foreign broadcasts.

Only two of five morning papers in Berlin mentioned Hess' mysterious flight to the British camp.

Any prized military information he may have disclosed since his parachute descent in Scotland Saturday was kept secret, and a London spokesman, alluding to the classic "Trojan Horse" trick by which the ancient Greeks captured Troy, declared:

"We want to be sure we haven't a 'Trojan Hess' on our hands."

Prime Minister Churchill, himself, was expected to follow up the preliminary questioning of Britain's No. 1 prisoner with a personal interview.

Authorized Germans, without even waiting for reports on what Hess might say, discounted in advance any such statements the British might issue.

They already have hinted strongly that Hess' mind was unbalanced as a result of stomach and lung ailments, and added that British stories purportedly coming from him might be distorted for propaganda purposes.

Hitler, plunging ahead with his military campaign, declared that ships risking the northern Red Sea—supply route which President Roosevelt opened recently to United States shipping—would expose themselves to destruction by "German armed forces."

Informed circles in Washington said Hitler's action had been anticipated and was not expected to change United States plans for getting supplies through to the Suez.

In the air war, Britain reported her second consecutive night of small-scale raids and said casualties were few.

Hitler's High Command said Nazi bombers sank three merchant ships totalling 14,000 tons off the British coast and "bombed several" (Turn To Page Eleven)

A German spokesman said Hess expected to fulfill his so-called peace mission in about two days, returning then to Germany with gasoline to be furnished by the British.

Earlier one authorized source said Hess had expected to return to Germany in a few weeks.

Authorized quarters said the intentions of the former No. 3 Nazi were indicated in documents he left behind.

A spokesman said Hitler's deputy for Nazi party affairs had no intention of approaching Prime Minister Churchill or other British government leaders, but had "a crazy notion" that a pacifist group, of which the duke was said to be a member, could bring about an international understanding.

HITLER - DARLAN TERMS RECEIVE VICHY SANCTION

French Government Unanimously Approves Pact Negotiated Between Chancellor and Premier Designed to Halt American Entry Into War

WILL BE FELT SOON

By the Associated Press

Vichy, France, May 14.—The French government unanimously approved today terms negotiated between Adolf Hitler and French Vice Premier Jean Darlan, presenting the United States with what diplomatic circles called the accomplished fact of European co-operations designed to halt American entry into the war.

There still was no official indication of what the terms involved but a communiqué, issued after the cabinet meeting, said "the effects of these negotiations will be felt soon."

Admiral Darlan, who also is the Vichy regime's foreign minister, was disclosed this week to have met Hitler at an undisclosed time and place in the presence of German Foreign Minister Joachim Von Ribbentrop.

Diplomatic circles were agreed generally that the terms included not only economic but political collaboration as well between the French and their German conquerors.

Belief was expressed, however, that the negotiations had not yet reached a final stage.

In the exchange, France was reported scheduled to receive varied advantages as, for example, the return of a number of prisoners who are primarily farm workers and a northward revision of the demarcation line, putting Paris in the zone not German-occupied and leaving the Nazi in control of only one-fifth of France.

Over Fifty Appropriation Bills to Raise Funds For Institutions Released by House

Chairman Achterman, of Important Committee Declares Six Remaining Administration Tax Proposals Will Be Reported Thursday

PREDICTS PASSAGE

Harrisburg, May 14.—(P)—More than fifty appropriation bills to raise funds for hospitals, schools and other institutions aided by the state were reported today to the House floor for action after three months in committee while Democrats investigated Governor James' $542,000,000 budget.

Comprising a bulky portion of the administration's program, the bills provided $8,487,450 for hospitals, $1,000,000 for occupational disease payments, $11,218,699 for the board of finance and revenue sinking fund, and $7,781,240 for general state authority rentals.

At the same time Chairman Leo A. Achterman (D-Monroe) of the house appropriations committee, said the six remaining administration tax proposals would be reported tomorrow. Two others—the balance of James' tax program—have been passed by the house and are in the senate.

Included in today's measures were appropriations of $1,350,000 (Turn To Page Eleven)

ROBBERY STAGED BY FIVE MEN

Within Few Minutes After Sensational Stick-up in Small McKean County Town General Police Alarm is Issued and All Roads in District Are Blocked by State Motor Police; Yeggs Unmasked And Flourish Pistols

ESCAPE IS MADE IN A CONVERTIBLE SEDAN

Eldred May 14.—(P)—Five well-dressed young men today held up the First National Bank, only bank in this small northwestern Pennsylvania community, and fled with cash which state motor police said bank officials estimated at $6,000.

Within a few minutes, a general police alarm was issued and all roads in the district were blocked by state motor police. One report to police said the gunmen's automobile was sighted at Larabee junction, a few miles south, and apparently was headed toward Port Allegany or Potter county.

An hour after the holdup at 10:10 a. m., a bank employee reported a "tip" on the holdup men had been received but declined to elaborate.

The men, unmasked and flourishing pistols, lined up the bank force of a half dozen clerks and officials, and three customers while one leaped a counter and picked up cash on the desks. They fled in a light-colored, convertible sedan bearing Pennsylvania license plates.

Justice of the Peace J. C. Loftus, who was in the bank at the time the five entered, described the men as "foreign-looking" and said he had noticed them yesterday on the streets in this McKean county community of 1,000 population. They all were "pretty well dressed," Loftus said.

"The pistols looked as big as oil barrels, but I suppose they were just .38 caliber guns," Loftus related.

One of the five carried a satchel. Loftus said he became suspicious because of their "bulging coats" (Turn To Page Eleven)

BRIBERY CHARGE IS MADE IN CASE AT CLEARFIELD

Jury of Seven Men and Five Women Trying Curwensville Man in Taxi-derry Robbery Hears Accusations He Tried to Get Officials to "Go Easy"

FURS ARE IDENTIFIED

Clearfield, May 14.—(P)—The jury of seven men and five women trying Reuben Robinson, Curwensville business man, on charges of participating in a $9,000 fur robbery here last March 31, heard a further accusation that he tried to pay $1,000 to get the district attorney to "go easy" in the case.

Jake Kranitz of DuBois, a dealer in used auto parts and former friend of Robinson, testified yesterday the accused man had asked him to act as go-between and turn the $1,000 over to Morris Jones, Clearfield county detective, to be given to District Attorney Carl Berlin.

"The boys have decided to chip in that much," Kranitz quoted Robinson as telling him.

Berlin has charged Robinson with the "brains" behind a gang which raided the Clearfield Taxidermy Shop of 48 fur pieces. He said he has signed confessions from three Altoona men, Edward Swartz, saying the Curwensville defendant plotted the theft they committed.

OBITUARY

Sheffield, May 14.—Funeral services for Philip Sheridan Ekas, retired oil producer and drilling contractor, who died at the home of a niece, Mrs. Maude Hayes, here late Monday night, will be held at the Hayes home at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon. Rev. Ivan E. Rossell, pastor of the Methodist church, will officiate and burial will be in the Ekas plot in Oakland cemetery, Warren.

Stricken ill this past winter, Mr. Ekas spent several weeks as a patient in a Kane hospital. His condition improved and, a little over three months ago, he returned to Sheffield, residing since then at his niece's home. He had been able to be about until last Wednesday evening, when he suffered a heart attack which, with recurrences, resulted Monday in his demise.

Last survivor of a family of seven children, Mr. Ekas was a son of Philip and Christie Ann Lardin Ekas. He was born on a farm near Freeport, Butler county, on February 18, 1865. When but 17, he came to the village of Barnes, where he was employed as a cooper in a now long defunct carbon black factory. A few months later he went to Getfield, Cherry, Ohio, where he and his brother, the late Miller L. Ekas, purchased a lease and entered the oil business as producers.

In association with his brother and other local oilmen, "Phil," as he was known to his many friends and acquaintances, continued as a producer in the oil fields of this vicinity until about 20 years ago, when he sold his remaining interests and retired.

Although Sheffield for the past 41 years and neighboring oil town settlements for 18 prior years has been "home" to Mr. Ekas, his residence here was several times interrupted by trips away, some of them lasting years. Early in the century he was for a time in the real estate business in Brooklyn. He also spent a number of years as a drilling contractor in the West Virginia oil fields and at one time was employed as a field superintendent in the Colinga oil field, California. He had traveled quite extensively in the U. S. A. and was known in the Oklahoma and Texas oil fields, which he visited several times.

Mr. Ekas never married. The nearest of kin surviving are several nieces and nephews, among them Claude Ekas, of Kilgore, Tex.; Miller L. Ekas, of Kermit, Tex.; Mrs. Ada Doty, of Alice, Tex.; Mrs. Hayes and Mrs. Henrietta Landers, Sheffield.

MRS. IDA P. HALE

Russell, May 14.—Mrs. Ida Pickett Hale, of Akeley, one of that community's best known residents, died at her home last evening, aged 70 years.

She was born October 22, 1870, at Mishawaka, Ind., the daughter of the late Joseph and Sarah Pickett. She was married March 9, 1892, to William B. Hale, of Akeley, who preceded her in death about ten years ago.

She is survived by three sons, Howard P. Hale, of Niagara Falls, N. Y.; Lester J. Hale, of Youngsville, and William T. Hale, of Washington, D. C. Four grandchildren also survive.

Funeral services will be held Friday afternoon at two o'clock from the home. Interment will be in the Akeley cemetery.

MRS. LEE ATKINS

Ludlow, May 14.—Funeral services in memory of Mrs. Lee Atkins, of Ludlow, were held Monday afternoon at two o'clock from the home, with the Rev. Ivan E. Rossell, of the Sheffield Methodist church, officiating. Interment was in the Barnes cemetery with the following acting as bearers: Russell Kelly, Jack Kelly, Arthur Peterson, Richard Atkins, Preston Atkins and Keith Atkins.

Those in attendance from out of town included the following: Mrs. Edith Althoff, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Kelly, Jack Kelly, of Bradford; Mr. and Mrs. Darrell Atkins, Betty and Bruce Atkins, of Cyclone; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Atkins, Clarendon; Mr. and Mrs. Keith Atkins, Mr. and Mrs. Pete Haines, Herbert Haines and Mrs. Ralph Haines, of Warren; William Wise and Mrs. Harold Davidson, of Kane.

WILLIAM D. SCHEARER

William D. Schearer, lifelong resident of Pleasant township, passed away at the Warren General Hospital shortly after three o'clock this morning. He was born in Pleasant township February 1, 1877. He retired seven years ago after having been employed for 35 years as a blacksmith at the Struthers-Wells plant.

He leaves one daughter, Miss Doris, and a son, Arthur, of Warren; one brother and one sister, Leon Schearer and Mrs. Alice Goff, also of Warren; and one granddaughter, Kay Schearer.

Removal has been made to the Peterson Funeral Home, where friends may call. His pastor, Rev. E. K. Rogers, of the First Lutheran church, will conduct services from there at two o'clock Friday afternoon, with interment in Oakland cemetery.

TRESPASS CASE BEING TRIED IN COUNTY COURT

The case of Alex German, administrator of the estate of Steven German, deceased, vs. C. Bruce Riddell, an action in trespass, was still being tried at the May term of court at press time today.

The case is the outgrowth of an automobile accident on Route 6, near Sheffield, on January 23, 1940, when Steven German, a passenger in the car of the defendant in the action, received fatal injuries, dying before being admitted to the Kane hospital.

The plaintiff in the action contends that Riddell's negligence resulted in the accident, and the defense is that Riddell was passing an oncoming convoy and struck a culvert which was covered by snow.

The case opened yesterday afternoon and continued today, with the jury being sent from the box on several occasions while counsel argued points in the case before Judge Arnd. Shortly before the close of this morning's session, Attorney S. D. Blackman, counsel for the defendant, moved for a non-suit in the action.

Attorney John Stewart and Alexander C. Flick are representing the plaintiff.

TIMES TOPICS

RUSSELL CIVIC CLUB

The Russell Civic Club will meet this evening at 7:30 o'clock in the town hall at Russell. A large attendance is desired.

MARRIAGE LICENSE

A license to wed has been issued at the recorder's office to Joseph Benjamin Bruto, of Jamestown, N. Y., and Ann Catherine Regina, of Warren.

TO ACTIVE DUTY

H. P. Hare, C. W. T. (P.A.), U. S. Navy Retired, of R. D. 3, Warren, has left for League Island Navy Yard, Philadelphia, where he is scheduled to take up active duty.

BROTHERHOOD MOVIES

Moving pictures that are of particular interest to the Lutheran men of this section will be shown at the regular meeting of the First Lutheran Men's Brotherhood tomorrow evening at 7:30 o'clock. All men of the parish are cordially invited.

HAS MORE PUPPIES

It was reported today that John Zerby, of Starbuck, still has three female puppies which he will be glad to give to anyone who will give them a good home. Mr. Zerby already has given away eight puppies of the litter.

RESERVE OFFICERS

The Warren County Chapter of the Reserve Officers' Association will hold its regular meeting Thursday evening at 8 o'clock in the American Legion home. Lieutenant Victor VerMilyea will speak on "A Motorized Patroling Problem."

HURT AT WORK

Harry C. Pillsbury, 35, of Pittsburgh, who is employed by Guy Rhoades, was treated at the Warren General Hospital this morning for scalp lacerations, received when he was struck on the head by two rolls of wire. He was discharged after treatment.

MOTHERS HONORED

Twenty boys from Troop 4, Boy Scouts, camped at Jelfore over the weekend and, on Sunday, invited parents to a tureen dinner at camp for Mother's Day. Mothers and sons were seated at the table and a delicious dinner served by men of the group. After dinner, the boys challenged the "dads" to a ball game. This party was the second Mother's Day program this troop has held and it is planned to continue it as a yearly event.

Big Times-Mirror Cooking School To Reflect "Revival of Cooking"

"The Revival of Cooking." That was the subject of a leading editorial carried recently in the New York Herald-Tribune. The Times-Mirror is in hearty agreement with the remainder in the opening editorial paragraph that: "In the course of the last few years there has been a tremendous upsurge of interest in this country in the art and science of cookery."

The Times-Mirror's confidence in that interest is finding practical expression in the modern, eagerly-awaited Cooking School, which will open its doors May 20, 21, 22 and 23 in the convenient quarters of the Y. W. C. A. activities building.

Here the art and science of cookery will be stressed by a nationally-known specialist in homemaking. Mrs. Katherine Baldridge, whose years of training and research will be available to every homemaker in the community. Capacity audiences in city after city, keenly attentive and brimming with questions, have convinced Mrs. Baldridge that American women are in no danger of becoming slaves of the can opener, the quick lunch and synthetic food.

Homemakers inquire into more important angles than time and step savers. They want to know how to recognize foods rich in vitamins, how to build up sturdy bodies that will resist disease, how to stretch the food dollar to cover a maximum of nourishment, how to make their meals more colorful and appealing, how to simplify table service, and thus star as a gracious hostess, who entertains without apparent effort.

Many are the discoveries and short-cuts which this sympathetic home consultant is ready to share with her guests as unassuming as a friendly neighbor. Mrs. Baldridge will demonstrate the advantages of knowing how to win 100 percent efficiency from full-time mechanical servants, which will be watched in actual performance in her immaculate model kitchen.

Quoting again from the Herald-Tribune editorial:

"The undoubted improvement in the quality of the nation's cooking over the space of the last five or ten years may be attributed partly to scientific advances all along the line—production, refrigeration, canning, marketing, household methods and utensils. But that is not the whole story. Propaganda (in the most benign sense of that word) had much to do with it. Food advertising cannot only be a good guide to values, but at its best it can elevate the national taste."

New chapters in "The Revival of Cooking" will be revealed May 20, 21, 22 and 23 in the Y. W. C. A. activities building. Join the parade to the Times-Mirror Cooking School, for inspiration, original recipes, daily gifts of filled market bags and valuable major awards.

Plans For Observance of Memorial Day Made by Veterans' Committee

Appropriate plans for the observance of Memorial Day in Warren were about completed last night by the veterans committee in charge of the activities. The Memorial Day committee met at the American Legion Home.

Present were Charles E. Rohlin and Thomas Jaynes, of the Spanish War Veterans; J. H. West, Earl E. Small and Frank Duffy, representing the V. F. W., and N. K. Wendelboe, Ben Kinnear and C. D. Cannon of the American Legion.

As has been the custom in past years a joint service will be held on the lawn of the American Legion Home the Sunday preceding Memorial Day, May 25th at 6:30 p. m. The a cappella choir of the high school and the V. F. W. band will provide the music. Rev. Edward Jacobs of St. Joseph's church will give the invocation. All church members of the various denominations are invited to this service, as well as all others who wish to unite with the veterans' organizations in this memorial program. The complete order of service will be announced in a short time.

On Memorial Day morning the annual parade will be held leading to the speaker's stand at the cemetery with exercises to follow at the G. A. R. Circle. The arrangements of the parade cannot be announced until all participating units are known.

Exercises at the speaker's stand will be in charge of Chief Cornplanter Post, No. 135, American Legion. Commander N. K. Wendelboe will preside. Rev. S. R. Shieff will give the invocation. Rev. J. A. Davidson will give the Memorial Day address and Rev. Bertil Edquist will pronounce the benediction.

General Logan's Orders will be read by William Berry, Commander of the United Spanish War Veterans. Lincoln's Gettysburg Address will be read by Fred Retterer, Jr., of the Sons of the American Legion.

Following this part of the program the participating units and public are invited to the G. A. R. Circle for the final tribute to Warren's war dead. A uniformed firing squad will be on hand. Those patriotic societies who wish to take part in this impressive tribute to the unknown soldier are asked to contact Ben Kinnear so that a place for them may be made in the program.

The Memorial Day committee also requested that all persons knowing of the death of any War-

Warren Youth With Infantry Battalion Training on Coast

Having completed preliminary phases of rifle marksmanship instruction, selective service trainees of the 77th Infantry Training Battalion at Camp Roberts, Calif., are now firing their weapons for record on the range to determine what individuals will be classified as marksmen, sharpshooters, or expert riflemen.

Stanley C. Wilkins of this city, who was inducted in March, is now undergoing 13 weeks of basic training with the 77th which is one of eight similar organizations comprising the 16th Infantry Training Group at the Infantry Replacement Training Center on the Pacific Coast. There are approximately 1000 men in the battalion, commanded by Lt.-Col. Paul D. Cawter.

Seven more Infantry battalions are to be activated on May 15 when 107 specially trained reserve officers arrive from the Infantry School at Fort Benning, Ga., to constitute the 17th Infantry Training Group. Trainees for the newly organized battalions are due at Camp Roberts on or about June 1. Colonel John L. Jenkins will be in command.

Homestead Grays First Forge Foes

Jim Kannen, booking manager of the National Forge and Ordnance baseball team, announced today that the first foe for the Irvine tossers will be the famous Homestead Grays who will play on Wilder Field on May 22.

The St. Marys Colts will be the Memorial Day attraction.

Emmett "Emmy" Morrison, last year's captain, has taken over as playing manager.

NAZIS SAY HESS WAS SLIPPING; PICTURES DON'T AGREE

With Mussolini after Munich pact in 1938.

With Molotov after Nazi-Soviet pact in 1939

Lineup of Nazi leaders in Berlin on Jan. 30, 1911, during anniversary celebration of National Socialist Revolution.

Juggling the Rudolph Hess hot potato, Nazi bigwigs says he had "illusions" . . . that he was seeking peace . . . and that he had been slipping badly in Hitler's hierarchy. Maybe so, but these pictures seem to prove the National Socialist party head was doing all right up until a few weeks ago. For instance: When Hitler triumphed at Munich in 1938, who rode with the then high-riding Mussolini? Hess. When Germany signed with Russia to open the way for invasion of Poland in 1939, who was shaking Molotov's hand all over the place? Hess. And on last January 30 when the Nazis celebrated the anniversary of their revolution, who was sitting right beside Hitler . . . the military chieftains Von Brauchitsch and Keitel were down the line with Hess.

ATTENTION, ST. LOUIS!

That St. Louis preacher who distributed one hundred one-dollar bills to his congregation Sunday to teach them the Biblical parable of the talents of experience—and to make money for church improvements—was not springing something entirely new, as might have been gleaned from the press dispatch telling about the stunt.

It appears that here in this community the Women's Auxiliary of the Warren General Hospital at its annual business meeting May 2, started the same project.

Members enrolling were given a dollar bill to be returned at the initial meeting in the fall, the first Friday in October. They were urged to list with the secretary the things they intended to do—bake bread, rolls, cake, cookies, candy, gifts or what not. People who want such articles call the secretary to find out where they may be secured.

According to all reports the scheme is working out very satisfactorily and will make a nice return for Auxiliary which in turn will use the money in its work for the hospital.

LILAC TIME HERE AGAIN

One of the pleasant tasks we are impelled to undertake each year at this particular season is to extend congratulations and best wishes to the Metzger-Wright Company and employees on the occasion of their anniversary.

As in other years, this 45th anniversary of the well known merchandising establishment, is of considerable interest to readers of the Times-Mirror and residents generally of the entire shopping era, not only because of the elaborate plans that have been made by store officials for the anniversary sale, but because of the very interesting manner in which it has been promoted.

In connection with the anniversary we have been privileged to print a series of articles under the heading "Warren—45 Years Ago," which have been so much enjoyed that many will regret to see them discontinued.

The old-time pictures of Warren, likewise, have created great reader-interest. Both of the features were inspired and prepared by persons connected with the Metzger-Wright store, and we take this means of expressing appreciation to those responsible.

The idea of a "lilac tournament" in connection with the anniversary is one that grows in interest yearly.
This spring there should be keen competition in the contest since lilac bushes are in full bloom and at their prettiest at the present time.

It's a great party the Metzger-Wright Company sponsors for residents of Warren and vicinity each year at lilac time. We suggest you visit the store and find out for yourself just to what lengths they have gone to make it a really worth-while event for their friends and patrons.

SERMON ON SAFETY

"There's an awful vacancy in our home . . . his fishing pole stands there by mine . . . his new camera is there, unused . . ."

The Rev. H. O. Egerston, pastor of Our Saviour's Lutheran church in Los Angeles, yesterday was preaching the funeral sermon of his own son, Jordan, 14, killed by an automobile.

"The radio which I promised him if he made certain grades—and, to my surprise, he made them—is there.
never to play any more . . . the alarm clock with which I awakened him every morning to take his paper route
. . . and his bicycle of which he was so proud—it's all a mangled mess.

"By man cometh death . . ."

Advance reports about the Players' Club offering Thursday and Friday evenings seem to indicate that it is a galloping comedy.

A young Selectee mailed a post card from Camp

YOUR NATION'S CAPITOL
By Peter Edson
The Times-Mirror Washington Correspondent

Big Shots, Little Shots, Generals and Admirals Blow Up Trial
Balloons to Test War Sentiment.

Washington, May 14—The job of selling the country on the idea of this defense effort is one of the most amazing sidelights of preparedness for war. Since it's the newspaper reader who has to be sold, you may be interested in knowing a little about the inner working of the sales technique.

It isn't organized into anything like a ministry of propaganda yet, for the main acts are run as separate, independent shows—the army, navy and the Office for Emergency Management. Also, every army camp, naval station and air base has its own publicity officer.

The selling job, the idea of getting everybody all hipped up on this program, begins at the top and goes right through every defense agency. There is a constant demand for speakers. Cabinet members in outworn assorted admirals and generals in or out of gold braid, and dollar-a-year brass hats in business suits or dinner jackets can always expect a call to say something before national conventions, trade associations or regular sessions of the 75-cent blue plate special luncheon clubs.

Among the starred and striped officers of the armed services, these speeches take the line of telling the citizenry what a great navy we got and what a great army we will have. Assurances must be given that soldiers and sailors are just one big happy family and the folks back home don't need to worry about their boys.

The job of cabinetiers of late has been to preside at the launching of trial balloons, as witness the recent speeches of Secretaries Knox and Stimson. Here is where real high pressure salesmanship is required as the number of successful balloon salesmen in the country is extremely limited and the American public has considerable sales resistance to merchandise that might get it in trouble.

The real burden of gumshoe salesmanship on the defense effort has therefore fallen to the dollar-a-year men in OPM. Big business men themselves, they have had to go out and speak the language of business to convince chambers of commerce and individual manufacturers that this defense effort is no sideline or by-product, that plant expansion and full speed are necessary, and that normal business production would have to be cut if sufficient military supplies were to be supplied in time.

All these speeches have to be carefully prepared and approved so there won't be any apologies and explanations to make later.

As a result, there has grown up a sizeable force of Washington speech writers. The big shots obviously haven't time to prepare all these talks themselves so the job is turned over to experts who write rough drafts that are played over by economic advisers and passed on by lawyers before they

The county commissioners and others interested in the good roads movement in Warren county are in no way to blame for the delay in construction of the highways in this vicinity as they have, for several months been in communication with the Highway Department at Harrisburg and have made several requests that bids be advertised for in connection with several roads.

The street market this morning did not present an abundance of attractive offerings. One vendor had a quantity of green onions about the size of Pittsburgh stoppies. They were tied in bunches of five and sold for five cents. Eggs jumped a cent, the price being 21 cents
the dozen.

Elmer Anderson was badly bruised this morning when his bicycle collided with one being driven by Roy Kollar at the street car barn.

A Washington Daybook

By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON — Capital parade (strictly military):

The 900 girls, mostly government workers, who have registered here as dancers and are on call as partners for soldiers at hops in town and at the camps, are forming a military organization. It's an odd army: it's all officers. The girls are colonels, captains and so on down to sergeants and corporals.

The reason for this is not quite clear. Sgt. Geraldine (last name and telephone number may be obtained through the District of Columbia dance committee) thinks maybe it's to help the soldiers' morale. For instance, she explains, it won't hurt a private's chest expansion a bit if when he's asked what he did over the weekend, he can answer: "I took Captain Smithers to a dance—Capt.
Mary Smithers—and, Soldier, if you ask me, the captain's swell!"

WARREN WORKER RE-ELECTED TO DISTRICT POST

Miss Maryann Brugger, social worker of the Children's Aid Society of Warren County, was re-elected to the executive committee to plan the 1942 regional conference on community welfare at yesterday's annual session held in Meadville.

This year's conference, arranged under the direction of the Pennsylvania Conference on Social Work, dealt mainly with the tieup between social work and national defense, and this theme was stressed by the majority of the speakers.

Attending the sessions from Warren, besides Miss Brugger, were the following: Department of public assistance office, Miss Frances Schumacher, Rev. J. C. Wygant, S. G. Davis, Mrs. Mabel Laufenburger, Mrs. Marian MacDowell, Mrs. Rachel Raisor, Mrs. Bess Beedle, Charles Briggs, Ernest Johnson and Miss Grace Sweeney; Warren State Hospital, Nelson A. Johnson; Children's Aid Society, Mrs. Grace Wholeben; probation officer, Mrs. Lenor Jordan, with a guest, Mrs. Bertha Lyons.

TREND TO SMALLER DINING ROOM SUITES EVIDENT IN "HALLMARK QUALITY" LINE

Dinettees Have Styling of Full Size Suites.

Dining rooms are becoming smaller! This statement is borne out by the fact that the once lordly dining room suite has gradually given way to "junior" dining room suites and "dinettees." In keeping with this trend to smaller size dining rooms, the new Hallmark Quality line of furniture, recently introduced by Montgomery Ward & Company, features small dining room suites with the same styling as the full size suites.

Designed for Small Homes and Apartments.

The demand for small dining room suites has grown out of the fact that architects have gradually been "chopping" off modern dining rooms, until all that remains in many homes and apartments is a fairly large "dinette." As a result, home owners have been running into no end of difficulty in furnishing these "dinettees." They have been forced to accept either a full size dining room suite or a not-too-handsome dinette set.

Designers Aware of "Small Home" Needs.

Many of the dining room suites created by famous makers for the Hallmark Quality Group are ideal in size for the small home or apartment dining room. According to Wards, the smart "junior" size dining room suite is available in French Provincial, Regency, 18th Century, Modern and in nearly every "period" design. "One of the most striking suites," they say, "is the new Black Lacquer Regency. It has the luster of rare onyx, and is accented with a rich looking gold trim." "All of the suites in the 'junior' group are authentic reproductions of full size dining room suites."

Bradford Girl is Recovering From Harrowing Experience After Being Gagged, Bound by Robber at Barnes

Barnes, May 14—Miss Katherine Brown, 22, of Bradford, is recovering from shock and minor injuries suffered between eight and nine o'clock last night at the home of her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Byrne, of this place, when she was bound and gagged by a burglar who entered the house while Mr. and Mrs. Byrne were visiting in Warren.

The burglar, who was unmasked and was described by Miss Brown as being middle aged and wearing a black zipper sweater, is reported to have taken $8 from a pocket-book and a dime bank containing about $4.

Mr. and Mrs. Byrne, who occupy the apartment on the south side of home cottage on the estate of the late Byron Horton, left for Warren about 7:30. Miss Brown decided to remain at home and was lying on a bed, reading, when the stranger suddenly entered and asked her for the "sugar bowl."

Miss Brown told officers she attempted to get to the telephone to call for help, but that the man grabbed her, stuffed a wash cloth into her mouth and bound her with a piece of clothesline and a belt from a dressing gown. She said she remembered very little after this and she was found lying unconscious on the floor by Mr. and Mrs. Byrne upon their return, about 10:30.

It was stated that several neighbors went to the house and rang the doorbell between the time the burglary occurred and the return of Mr. and Mrs. Byrne, but went away again when they received no answer.

Officers were told that all of the doors in the house were locked and that the only way the man could have entered was through a bathroom window.

Miss Brown, who lived in Barnes all her life until about two years ago, when she went to Bradford with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Brown, said she did not recognize the burglar.

Sheffield Police Chief Sanford Secor and Constable Charles Slater were called and began an immediate investigation. They were joined later by Deputy Sheriff L. E. Linder, of Warren. The investigation was being continued today.

All Registered Men in County To Get Questionnaires by June 30th

Every man in Warren county who registered under the Selective Service act probably will have his classification questionnaire by the end of June and will know whether he is subject to immediate call for service in the U. S. Army, it was indicated today by the local draft boards.

Both local boards are sending out questionnaires at the rate of about fifty a day, in order to have this work completed before the next registration, which has been set tentatively for the first of July, it was stated.

FINAL SCHOOL CHAMPS PICKED IN MIBS EVENT

Last school championships in the National Marble Tournament here were held last evening at the Beaty school when champions for Beaty, East street and St. Joseph's parochial school were crowned.

These champions are Richard Grubbs, 13, of 1301 Pennsylvania avenue, west, representing Beaty; Gail Swanson, 11, of 409 Fifth avenue, representing East, and Peter Paterniti, 13, of 1110 Pennsylvania avenue, west, representing St. Joseph's school.

This brings to seven the number of school champions in the borough. These seven boys will battle it out on Saturday afternoon at the South Side playground to determine the city champ who will represent Warren in the sectional finals in Hershey on June 15-19.

Results of the Tuesday tournaments:

East: Ring 1 — Gail Swanson; ring 2 — John Elliott; ring 3 — Benney Newmaker. Champion — Gail Swanson.

St. Joseph's: Ring 1 — Tom Julian; ring 2 — Peter Paterniti. Champion — Peter Paterniti.

Local Board No. 1 yesterday mailed questionnaires to those with order numbers from 1231 to 1285, inclusive, while Local Board No. 2 mailed questionnaires to men with numbers from 1226 to 1275, inclusive.

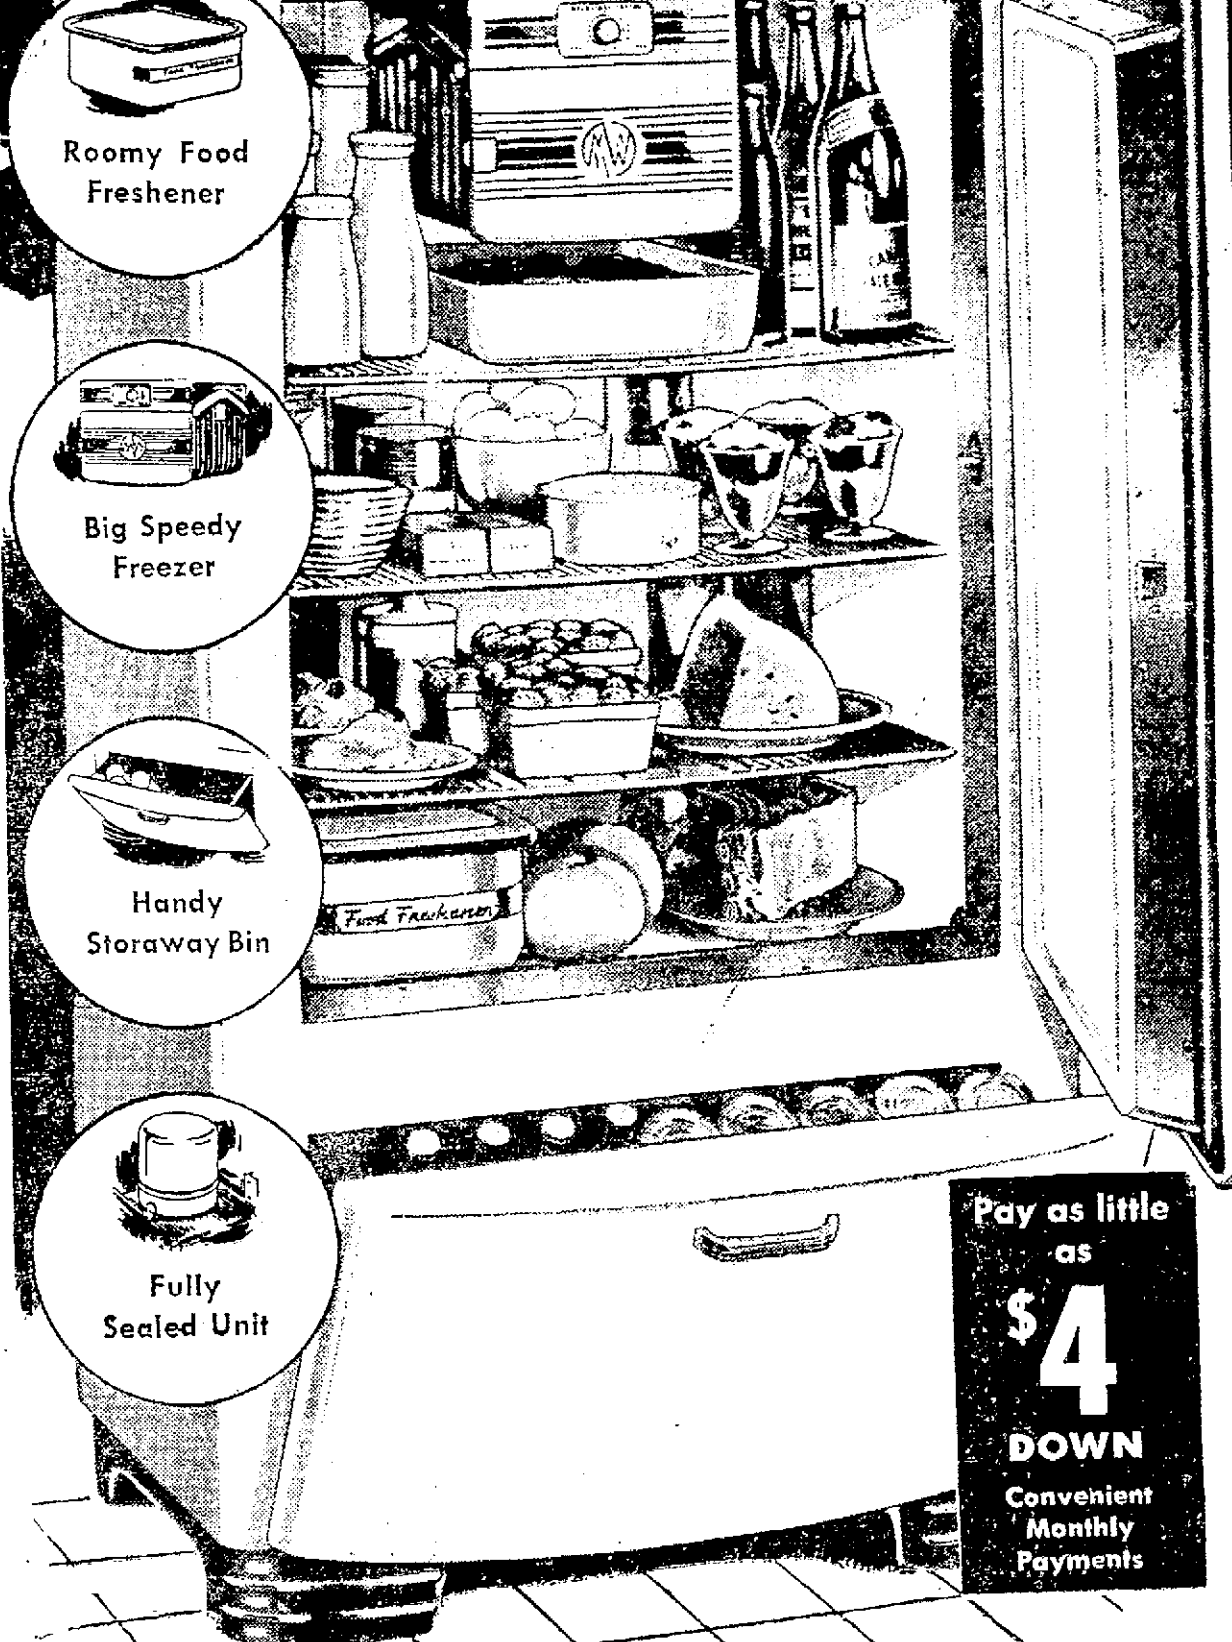

Those receiving questionnaires from Local Board No. 1 are as follows:

RECOVER VIOLIN OF LOCAL PUPIL

Miss Mary Freund, Warren High School senior and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Freund, 207 Pennsylvania avenue, east, is rejoicing today over the prospect of having a valuable violin, stolen May 2 at Atlantic City, returned to her in the near future.

Miss Freund, one of a large group of local school musicians who went to Atlantic City for the national music competition, had her violin valued at nearly $200, stolen on Friday evening, May 2, the first day of competition. The instrument was taken from the auditorium press room, where it had been placed by Miss Freund.

Police have notified the local family that the violin was found in a furnished room of Benjamin Jarmus, 42, of New York City, who is reported to have been charged with larceny.

Mr. and Mrs. Freund expect to go to Atlantic City soon to identify the instrument and bring it back to Warren.

WARREN WORKER RE-ELECTED TO DISTRICT POST

Miss Maryann Brugger, social worker of the Children's Aid Society of Warren County, was re-elected to the executive committee to plan the 1942 regional conference on community welfare at yesterday's annual session held in Meadville.

This year's conference, arranged under the direction of the Pennsylvania Conference on Social Work, dealt mainly with the tieup between social work and the national defense, and this theme was stressed by the majority of the speakers.

Attending the sessions from Warren, besides Miss Brugger, were the following: Department of public assistance office, Miss Frances Schimmelfeng, Rev. J. C. Wygant, S. G. Davis, Mrs. Mabel Lauffenburger, Mrs. Marian MacDowell, Mrs. Rachel Raisor, Mrs. Bess Beedle, Charles Briggs, Ernest Johnson and Miss Sweeney; Warren State Hospital, Nelson A. Johnson; Children's Aid Society, Mrs. Grace Wholeben; probation officer, Mrs. Lenor Jordan, with a guest, Mrs. Bertha Lyons.

TREND TO SMALLER DINING ROOM SUITES EVIDENT IN "HALLMARK QUALITY" LINE

Dinettes Have Styling of Full Size Suites.

Dining rooms are becoming smaller! This statement is borne out by the fact that the once lordly dining room suite has gradually given way to "junior" dining room suites and "dinettes." In keeping with this trend to smaller size dining rooms, the new Hallmark Quality line of furniture, recently introduced by Montgomery Ward & Company, features small dining room suites with the same styling as the full size suites.

Designed for Small Homes and Apartments.

The demand for small dining room suites has grown out of the fact that architects have gradually been "chopping" off modern dining rooms, until all that remains in many homes and apartments is a fairly large "dinettes." As a result, home owners have been running into no end of difficulty in furnishing these "dinettes." They have been forced to accept either a full size dining room suite or a not-too-handsome dinette set.

Designers Aware of "Small Home" Needs.

Many of the dining room suites created by famous makers for the Hallmark Quality Group are ideal in size for the small home or apartment dining room. According to Wards, the smart "junior" size dining room suite is available in French Provincial, Regency, 18th Century, Modern and in nearly every "period" design. "One of the most striking suites," they say, "is the new Black Lacquer Regency. It has the look of rare oak, and is accented with a rich looking gold trim." "All of the suites in the 'junior' group are authentic reproductions of full size dining room suites."

Bradford Girl is Recovering From Harrowing Experience After Being Gagged, Bound by Robber at Barnes

Barnes, May 14—Miss Katherine Brown, 22, of Bradford, is recovering from shock and minor injuries suffered between eight and nine o'clock last night at the home of her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Byrne, of this place, when she was bound and gagged by a burglar who entered the house while Mr. and Mrs. Byrne were visiting in Warren.

The burglar, who was unmasked and was described by Miss Brown as being middle aged and wearing a black zipper sweater, is reported to have taken $8 from a pocket-book and a dime bank containing about $4.

Mr. and Mrs. Byrne, who occupy the apartment on the south side of Home cottage on the estate of the late Byron Horton, left for Warren about 7:30. Miss Brown decided to remain at home and was lying on a bed, reading, when the stranger suddenly entered and asked her for the "sugar bowl."

Miss Brown told officers she attempted to get to the telephone to call for help, but that the man grabbed her, stuffed a wash cloth into her mouth and bound her with a piece of clothesline and a belt from a dressing gown. She said she remembered very little after this and she was found lying unconscious on the floor by Mr. and Mrs. Byrne upon their return, about 10:30.

It was stated that several neighbors went to the house and rang the doorbell between the time the burglary occurred and the return of Mr. and Mrs. Byrne, but went away again when they received no answer.

Officers were told that all of the doors in the house were locked and that the only way the man could have entered was through a bathroom window.

Miss Brown, who lived in Barnes all her life until about two years ago, when she went to Bradford with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Brown, said she did not recognize the burglar.

Sheffield Police Chief Sanford Secor and Constable Charles Slat-ter were called and began an immediate investigation. They were joined later by Deputy Sheriff L. E. Linder, of Warren. The investigation was being continued to-day.

All Registered Men in County To Get Questionnaires by June 30th

Every man in Warren county who registered under the Selective Service act probably will have his classification questionnaire by the end of June and will know whether he is subject to immediate call for service in the U. S. Army, it was indicated today by the local draft boards.

Both local boards are sending out questionnaires at the rate of about fifty a day, in order to have this work completed before the next registration, which has been set tentatively for the first of July, it was stated.

Local Board No. 1 yesterday mailed questionnaires to those with order numbers from 1231 to 1285, inclusive, while Local Board No. 2 mailed questionnaires to men with numbers from 1226 to 1275, inclusive.

FINAL SCHOOL CHAMPS PICKED IN MIBS EVENT

Last school championships in the National Marble Tournament here were held last evening at the Beaty school when champions for Beaty, East street and St. Joseph's parochial school were crowned.

These champions are Richard Grubbs, 13, of 1301 Pennsylvania avenue, west, representing Beaty; Gail Swanson, 11, of 409 Fifth avenue, representing East, and Peter Paterniti, 13, of 1110 Pennsylvania avenue, west, representing St. Joseph's school.

This brings to seven the number of school champions in the borough. These seven boys will battle it out on Saturday afternoon at the South Side playground to determine the city champion who will represent Warren in the sectional finals in Hershey on June 15-19. Results of the Tuesday tournaments:

East: Ring 1 — Gail Swanson; ring 2 — John Elliott; ring 3 — Benney Newmaker. Champion — Gail Swanson.

St. Joseph's: Ring 1 — Tom Juliano; ring 2 — Peter Paterniti. Champion — Peter Paterniti.

Alvera Anderson Is United in Marriage
With Robert Dixon

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Axel Anderson, of Scandia, was the scene of a pretty spring wedding at 10:30 o'clock Saturday morning when their daughter, Alvera, became the bride of Robert Dixon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Dixon, of Warren.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. L. R. Hagberg, of Sugar Grove, in the presence of thirty relatives.

The bride wore a floor-length gown of blue chiffon and carried an arm bouquet of white snapdragons and pink and white carnations.
Miss Marian Dixon, sister of the bridegroom and maid of honor, wore a long frock of blue chiffon, also, and carried an arm bouquet of red and white snapdragons.

Mr. Dixon had as his best man Melvin Anderson, brother of the bride.

Immediately following the ceremony, a wedding breakfast was served. Seated at the bride's table were Mr. and Mrs. Axel Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Dixon,
Mr. and Mrs. William Trushel, Rev.
Hagberg and the bridal party.

Other guests were Mr. and Mrs.
Fritz Lundberg, Miss Louise Steb-er, of Venturatown, Mrs. Ray Austin, Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Anderson and daughter, Jane, Mrs. Alice Laufenberger and daughter, Mary,
Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Laufenberger, Jack Jenkins and Miss Alice Sampson, of Warren; Leo Glass, of Kinross, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Howarth, of Sheffield; Ernest Sanden and Mrs. Orlo Lane, of Scandia.

After a short wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Dixon expect to make their home at Scandia.

Goodwill Class Has
Annual May Program

Goodwill Class members of Grace Methodist church and their invited guests gathered in the church dining room last evening to enjoy their annual May party. A delicious thirteen dinner at six o'clock was followed by a program that combined Mother's Day and patriotic themes.

The two committees headed by Mrs. George Kilmestiver and Mrs.
Otto Peterson served at tables beautifully appointed in yellow, white and green. Featured in the decorations were attractive candelabra, a gift to the class from the late Mrs. Mac Olney and used for the first time.

After dinner, the ladies gathered in the Winger room to enjoy the program presented by the hostess,
Mrs. Myrta Hulings, as follows:

Devotions, Mrs. G. S. W. Phillips; group singing of "America";
duet, "How Betsey Ross Made the Flag," Mrs. Carl Lindquist and Mrs. R. M. Krebs; violin selections,
"In a Monastery Garden" and
"Trees," Florence Engstrom; vocal songs, "My Gipsy Love" and "My Mother Dear," Bonny Johnson, accompanied by Lulu Mae Donze;
patriotic story of "Lincoln," Mrs.
Phillips; duet, "Songs I Heard My Mother Sing," Mrs. Ella Thompson and Mrs. Blanche Mitchell; piano solos, "Melody in F" and
"Love Dreams," Lulu Mae Donze; talk on the Star Spangled Banner, Mrs. Flora MacDowell, class teacher.

At the conclusion of the program, the class held its usual business session.

Warren Members Hold Ceremonial of World Sodalists Day

Sunday, May 11, was observed by Catholic young people as "World Sodalists Day" and the groups from St. Joseph's here held a special service at the house of the Holy Redeemer. The thousands of young people who participated in the ceremonies.

The junior Sodalists celebrated the occasion by 8:45 o'clock mass and Holy Communion in a receiving mass, juniors and body. They enjoyed breakfast in their rooms.

The seven o'clock in the evening, the Sodalists held a May coronation with the Queen of the May. The statue of the Blessed Virgin Mary, Isabel Brindis was the May Queen and was attended by Carlene Gibson and Barbara Lou Harrison. They were escorted to the altar by the following officers and central council of the senior Sodalists: Martha Gatz, Josephine Lucia, Anna Chiodo, Frances Bonavita, Emma Pavese, Jane Smarke, Ida Scalsie, Theresa Scalsie, Mary Musante and Elizabeth Jaynes.

At the foot of the Blessed Virgin's statue, Josephine Lucia sang Schubert's "Ave Maria", accompanied by Kathleen Simmons at the organ. Junior Sodalists then held a reception for new members. Father Edward Jacobs presiding, and the coronation was brought to a close with the Benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament.

All Sodalists and their mothers were then invited to the clubrooms, where entertainment was provided and refreshments were served.

Sodalists of the Holy Redeemer church entertained their mothers in the church hall Sunday evening. Featuring the gathering was the coronation of a May Queen in the person of Mary Ann Masterson, Mrs. George Monroe placing the crown.

The queen was attended by Doris Dinsmore, Barbara Hartweg, Barbara Pochey, Helen Dailey, Elaine Dailey and Barbara Wert.

Mothers of the girls were presented with corsages, after which a procession was formed into the church and Father M. E. Dailey gave a brief address on the universality of the Sodalists of Mary. There followed reception of new members and Rita Turner sang "Ave Maria". The benediction concluded the program.

Following the service in the church, refreshments were served in the church hall, where musical selections by Barbara Wert, Kathryn Saraceno and Rita Turner were enjoyed.

My next stop on the return from Florida was Asheville, N. C., where I went to make arrangements for the annual Southern Appalachian Sectional Championship of the American Contract Bridge League, which will be held about Aug. 22-24.

As I walked into the hotel I couldn't help but think of last year's tournament, in which three teams tied for first place. There was a local team, another team headed by Oswald Jacoby, and the team of which I was a member.

The tie was broken by a playoff, and we fortunately won the championship.

My partner during the match was Waldemar von Zedtwitz, who sat East. Our teammates were A. M. Barnes and Mrs. Wilkinson Wager, both of Atlanta. I'll always claim that perhaps the world's greatest card analyst is Von Zedtwitz, and an example of his play is given below.

From the bidding it looks as though both West and North were afraid that the other side was trying to steal something.

After winning the first trick, South let a low spade, North finessed against the dummy, and Von Zedtwitz ruffed. He laid down the ace of hearts. When the jack fell, he decided it was a singleton. His next move was to lead a low diamond and let South's ten hold.

North defended well by overtaking the ten with the jack and leading a second diamond. The ace won, and dummy led the heart for a winning finesse of the nine. Now von Zedtwitz led his third diamond, South by this time saw

BEEKEEPING ENGAGES ATTENTION OF 30,000

Nearly 30,000 persons in Pennsylvania are beekeepers. Of this number, 93 are in Warren County, reports County Agent O. C. Tritt. The total number of colonies of bees in the state is 175,000, and about 682 of these are in Warren County.

Beekeepers of Pennsylvania harvest approximately 4,500,000 pounds of honey each year, and in addition $150,000 pounds of beeswax is rendered from cappings and old combs. These products have a retail value of about $720,000.

Total sales of honey in the state are nearly twice the production, nearly 8,000,000 pounds being consumed by Pennsylvanians.

May, June, and July are the months when the bees gather most of the surplus quantities of the nectar from wild flowers, which they make into honey. During this time the beekeeper watches his bees closely to be sure that they have plenty of super space for the storage of honey. During May and June swarming must be prevented.

Ten times as much water will be pumped by a well-constructed windmill in a 10-mile wind as in a five-mile wind.

BEEKEEPING ENGAGES ATTENTION OF 30,000

Nearly 30,000 persons in Pennsylvania are beekeepers. Of this number, 83 are in Warren County, reports County Agent O. C. Tritt.

The total number of colonies of bees in the state is 175,000, and about 682 of these are in Warren County.

Beekeepers of Pennsylvania harvest approximately 4,500,000 pounds of honey each year, and in addition $150,000 pounds of beeswax is rendered from cappings and old combs. These products have a retail value of about $720,000.

Total sales of honey in the state are nearly twice the production, nearly 8,000,000 pounds being consumed by Pennsylvanians.

May, June, and July are the months when the bees gather most of the surplus quantities of the nectar from wild flowers which they make into honey. During this time the beekeeper watches his bees closely to be sure that they have plenty of super space for the storage of honey. During May and June swarming must be prevented.

High School Girls' Club Arranges For Annual Cabaret Fete

Ruth Ann Slattery heads the general committee for the annual cabaret party of the High School Girls' Club, to be held at the Y. W. C. A. activities building on Saturday night.

Hamlet?

Could this be Hamlet and the fair Ophelia? Who is the center figure? It looks as though it was taken beside the high school. If you can give us the names of these dramatic stars call 1720 or write to Metzger-Wright. What we learn from you will be published later.

Hidden away in a dark corner of the Times-Mirror attic a box of old electrotypes was found recently. Many were too faded to use, but some interesting ones of Warren in an earlier day came close to light. This is the 7th picture reprinted from the old plates.

New Glade Township Alumni Association Enjoys First Party

Nearly 90 members and guests attended the first annual banquet of the newly organized Glade Township Alumni Association, held last evening at the Y. W. C. A. activities building. Archie N. Hunter, husband of the school's principal, acted as an able toastmaster.

Table appointments were attractively carried out with lilacs, tulips and narcissi and small boats in pink, green and yellow. Following the serving, the program opened with all singing "School Days" and a reading by Fern Mostert in which she advised the girls on securing their partners for the dance. A vocal interlude of favorite songs was followed by a welcome to the graduates by Doris Valentine Hansen, president of the association, and the response by Gail Smith.

Melda Olsen was accompanied by the piano by Betty Mason for two vocal selections, "In a Lovely Garden" and "In a Little Town Near-by". Later, Miss Olsen sang "Sylvia".

Rev. E. P. Wroth, guest speaker, talked on religion and its need for balance in our everyday lives.

H. L. Blair, county superintendent of schools, spoke informally on the records of old schools of the township and C. S. Knapp, retired superintendent, brought a greeting to the older classes and a welcome to the 1941 graduates. Eleanor Pees read a greeting from Mrs. R. L. Dunn, of Mt. Pleasant, Mich., who was unable to be present.

Group singing brought the pleasing program to a close.

The remainder of the evening was devoted to dancing, with Wilson Brydon's Orchestra providing the music.

In connection with this alumni gathering, attention is called to omission of the name of Gail Smith in the recent commencement report of the township school.

PARTY HONORS JULIA FAZIO

Miss Anne Cardamone entertained Monday evening in honor of Miss Julia Fazio, who is to be the bride of Mike Fasana, of Jamestown, N. Y., on May 24.

Alvera Anderson Is United in Marriage With Robert Dixon

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Axel Anderson, of Scandia, was the scene of a pretty spring wedding at 10:30 o'clock Saturday morning when their daughter, Alvera, became the bride of Robert Dixon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Dixon, of Warren.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. L. R. Hagberg, of Sugar Grove, in the presence of thirty relatives.

The bride wore a floor-length gown of blue chiffon and carried an arm bouquet of white snapdragons and pink and white carnations. Miss Marian Dixon, sister of the bridegroom and maid of honor, wore a long frock of blue chiffon, also, and carried an arm bouquet of red and white snapdragons.

Mr. Dixon had as his best man Melvin Anderson, brother of the bride.

Immediately following the ceremony, a wedding breakfast was served. Seated at the bride's table were Mr. and Mrs. Axel Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Dixon, Mr. and Mrs. William Trushel, Rev. Hagberg and the bride party.

Other guests were Mr. and Mrs. Fritz Lundberg, Miss Louise Steber, of Venturatown, Mrs. Ray Austin, Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Anderson and daughter, Jane, Mrs. Alice Lauffenberger and daughter, Mary, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Lauffenberger, Jack Jenkins and Miss Alice Sampson, of Warren; Leo Glass, of Kinzua; Mr. and Mrs. Carl Howarth, of Sheffield; Ernest Sanden and Mrs. Orlo Lane, of Scandia.

After a short wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Dixon expect to make their home at Scandia.

Goodwill Class Has Annual May Program

Goodwill Class members of Grace Methodist church and their invited guests gathered in the church dining room last evening to enjoy their annual May party. A delicious twelve dinner at six o'clock was followed by a program that combined Mother's Day and patriotic themes.

The two committees headed by Mrs. George Klinefelter and Mrs. Otto Peterson served at tables beautifully appointed in yellow, white and green. Featured in the decorations were attractive candelabra, a gift to the class from the late Mrs. Mac Olney and used for the first time.

After dinner, the ladies gathered in the Winger room to enjoy the program presented by the hostess, Mrs. Myrtle Hulings, as follows:

Devotions, Mrs. G. S. W. Phillips; group singing of "America"; diat, "How Betsy Ross Made the Flag"; Mrs. Carl Lindquist and Mrs. R. M. Krebs; violin selections, "In a Monastery Garden" and "Trees"; Florence Engstrom; vocal solos, "My Givn Love" and "My Mother Dear"; Bonny Johnson, accompanied by Lulu Mae Donze; patriotic story of "Lincoln"; Mrs. Phillips; diat, "Song I Heard My Mother Sing"; Mrs. Ella Thompson and Mrs. Blanche Mitchell; piano solos, "Melody in F" and "Love Dreams"; Lulu Mae Donze; talk on the Star Spangled Banner, Mrs. Flora MacDowell, class teacher.

At the conclusion of the program, the class held its usual business session.

On Saturday the hostesses will be Mrs. Alan Scilly, Mrs. Merle Deardorff, Mrs. Grace P. Lott, Mrs. Clarence Beckley, Mrs. John L. Blair, Mrs. H. C. Warren, and Mrs. Gail Hamilton.

Those serving as hostesses on Sunday will be Mrs. Clare Cray, Mrs. Lynn Harold Hough, Mrs. Pinkney Wroth, Mrs. Ludo Dennison, Mrs. Alan Scilly and Miss Gene Alden Walker.

Ludlow Banquet Has Attendance of 100

Ludlow, May 14.—Approximately 100 mothers and daughters attended the annual banquet sponsored by the Lutheran Circle and held in the I. O. O. F. hall. Tables were beautifully decorated with flowers which were a gift of Victor Offerle, of Warren, and each mother and daughter was given a flower. Other appointments were in keeping with Mother's Day.

The after dinner program was as follows: Welcome by the class president, Mrs. Sherman Mattison; vocal diat, "A Song for Mothers"; Betty Lou Anderson and Louise Nelson, accompanied by Mrs. Raymond Shaffer; recitation, "As Mama Does"; Katherine Swanson; "A Sympathetic Glance at World Mothers", written by Mrs. Enoch O. Nelson and with Mrs. Julius Swanson as the German mother, Violet Swanson as the Polish, Mary Kress as the French, Ardele Whitman as the Swedish, Lydia Dickinson as the Chinese, Dorothy Lytle as the English, Grace Hildebrand as the American and Virginia Connolly as the child; reading, "Rock Me to Sleep"; Mrs. Melvin McCleery; portrayal of Whistler's "Mother" by Mrs. Walter Cox and a vocal solo, "Mother Machree" by Mrs. Emil Nelson; response by Mrs. Charles Lantz; Swedish song, "Mor Lilla Mor"; Mrs. Amalia Mattison, Mrs. Emil Nelson, Mrs. Carl Swanson, Mrs. William Hanson, Myrtle Johnson and Mrs. Walter Cox.

Mothers and daughters present from out of town were Mrs. Myral Kress and Mrs. Glen Adams, of Lock Haven; Mrs. John Dickinson, Jr., of Jamestown, N. Y.; Mrs. Edward Erickson, Warren; Mrs. G. G. Helm, Saybrook; Mrs. John Valentin, Kane; Mrs. Frank Hill and Marie Nelson, Port Allegany.

Lou Boudreau Homers In Tenth To Win For Bob Feller

Yanks Edged 2 to 1; Dodgers Down Reds For Sixth In A Row

BY JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Sports Editor

Bob Feller came to the Cleveland Indians six years ago labeled a marvel. He was 16 and fresh off a farm at Van Meter, Iowa.

Instead of undergoing a seasoning process in the minors like say Lefty Grove, Feller's first step in organized baseball was in the big arena of the American League.

Because of this it is too little time for this big, earnest boy to absorb the polish expected of a major league pitcher. He had an amazing fast ball, a minimum of control and only a vague idea that games could be won with less than a dozen or 15 strikeouts.

He still is learning, but there no longer is the faintest doubt that he is the best pitcher in the major leagues. The only question is what ultimate goal he will reach—whether some day he may be considered the greatest of all time.

He led the Indians yesterday to a 2-1 10-inning decision over the New York Yankees. It was his sixth victory against two defeats.

Feller allowed just six hits and fanned nine. The Indians scored off Maris Russo in the second inning, but an unearned run by the Yankees in the 10th tied the score. Feller just clapped down till Lou Boudreau hit a homer in the tenth to win.

The Chicago White Sox nudged out the Boston Red Sox, 3-2, and took over second place behind the Indians. John Rigney held Boston to four hits, two of them home runs by Jim Foxx and Ted Williams.

The Washington Senators squeezed past the Detroit Tigers, 5-1, by rallying for all their runs in the fifth and sixth innings, knocking Buck Newsom out of the box on the way. Young Sid Hudson allowed only three hits but walked and errors helped Detroit take a four-run lead in the first three frames.

The Athletics hammered out a 7-3 verdict over the St. Louis Browns behind the seven-hit hurling of Jack Knott.

In the National League the speeding Brooklyn Dodgers cut down the Cincinnati Reds 4-3 for their sixth straight victory. Chunky Hugh Casey limited the weak-hitting world champions to six hits in achieving his fifth win without defeat. The Dodgers got just eight off Bucky Walters.

This defeat sixth in eight games dropped the Reds into the second division as the rejuvenated Chicago

Cubs bumped off the Boston Braves, 4-3 to take fourth place. The St. Louis Cardinals punched out a 3-2 triumph over the third-place New York Giants for Mort Cooper's fourth victory. Carl Hubbell allowed the Cardinals only five hits in seven innings, but two of these were doubles by Johnny Mize, each scoring a run. After Hub had been removed for a pinch-hitter in a rally that tied the score in the eighth, Walter (Jumbo) Brown was needed for the winning run in the ninth on an error, a sacrifice and a single by Jimmy Brown.

The Pittsburgh Pirates broke their losing streak in a 5-3 face with the Phillies. Each team made 10 hits and four errors.

Bucs Beat Deadline By Dropping Three

Pittsburgh May 14—(P)—With the release of three players, Manager Frankie Fusch had the Pittsburgh Pirates down to the 25-hurt today a bit ahead of the May 15 deadline.

The Pirates sold Pitcher Dick Lannahan a southpaw to the St. Paul Saints and optioned a promising young right hander, Bill Clemensen, to the same team. Eamon they sent Catcher Joe Schultz to Portland of the Pacific Coast League, while two other Bucs, Long Johnny Gee, a southpaw, and Dick Conger already are getting more seasoning.

The wireless telegraph station at Mexico City is equipped to communicate with all countries of the world.

SPORT SCATTERINGS

BY HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Service Sports Editor

When there is something new in racing, it is introduced in progressive California.

The latest innovation at Hollywood Park is motion pictures of races in their entirety.

The plan requires eight patrol judges, each equipped with a combination binocular-camera.

Back at Hollywood Park, George Strate, veteran handler, gives Jimmy Wilson, Negro exercise boy, credit for Staretor's surprising second in the Kentucky Derby.

Strate got Wilson from the famous trainer, Jimmy Rowe. Wilson galloped Whichone, which Harry Payne Whitney regarded as the finest horse he ever owned.

Jimmy Wilson knows how to rate a horse to precision.

He taught Staretor how to be rated, which is why the tall and strong reddish chestnut son of Messenger left all but Whirlaway behind in a record-breaking race.

If he had to single out the one man most responsible for Brooklyn's sustained spurt, Leo Durocher would name Arnold Owen. Baseball writers guffawed when Mickey Owen was purchased from the Cardinals last winter and Lippy Durocher remarked that he would not trade the Missouri farmer for Harry the Horse Danning of the Giants.

Durocher wouldn't make the deal today. Neither would a lot of other baseball men.

Owen has taken the place of Durocher, the bench manager, on the field.

In the thick of things daily, he keeps the Flatbush flock hustling. He talks to the pitcher, shouts to the infielders, throws to the bases. He's going all the time.

The Dodgers will not fall asleep as long as Mickey Owen is around.

Frank Strafaci, the crack amateur now soldiering at Fort Hamilton, not far from his Brooklyn home, advises average week-end golfers to study the games of Samuel Jackson Snead and Ben Hogan.

Watching Snead and Hogan take their wide arc swings, you see the wheels go round.

They make ideal study subjects because of their accentuation of backswing, body turn, wrist action and follow through.

It's difficult to pick out component parts of the swing when you are looking at a small arc swinger.

Ben Hogan's exaggerated follow through presents such a glaring contrast to the average golfer's stilted finish that it affords observers convincing visual evidence of their own shortcomings.

YEARS AGO IN SPORT

May 14 1921—The whole community of Sheffield is expected to be present at Al Martin's next boxing show to see their favorite, Albert Fox, tangle with Young Bagley, of Jamestown. Bill Pans and George Olson, Warren fighters, have been excused from their occupations to train for their respective bouts.

May 14, 1931—Hear ye! Hear ye! Tomorrow is the anniversary of the birth of Samuel Montgomery McClure, secretary of the mushball league and manager of Ritchie's Roters. The eminent citizen will be at the post office from nine until noon to accept congratulations.

WARRIORS ARE AGAIN SCALPED BY WARREN NINE

Coach Jake Leidig's undefeated Dragons chalked up No. 9 yesterday afternoon by downing Joe Massa's Kinzua Warriors, 10 to 3, on the up-river lot. It was the third victory of the year over Kinzua for the locals.

Dick Kifer went six innings for the Dragons and gave way to Bennett in the last frame. The slender southpaw contributed to his own cause by poling out two doubles and a single in five trips to the platter, but Amie Edmiston, stellar second sacker, provided the hitting thrills of the day with a triple, a double and a single to hit 1,000. MacDonald had a pair of singles off the offerings of Kinzua's Roy Bennett.

LaDow got three of the Massa squad's five blows, one of his base knocks being of the two base variety.

PHILADELPHIAN GETS CRACK AT JENKINS FRIDAY

New York, May 14.—(P)—Bob Montgomery came within a "stoop" and a slightly-bent pair of knees of beating Lightweight Champion Lew Jenkins the last time they tangled, and now that he has another chance he isn't going to make the same mistake.

The "Philadelphia Henry Armstrong" gave the fans a promise and Jenkins a threat today by explaining he won't fight out of a crouch in their 10-round over-weight return go Friday in Madison Square Garden, but will be standing so he can toss bombs from any angle.

Such being the case, there are going to be a lot of fireworks night after tomorrow. Both of these fellows can deal 'em off the right arm just dandy. Bob showed that when he popped Lew the last time and put him down glassy-eyed for a count of nine. And no one has questioned the sleeping powders packed by the Sweet-water Swatter.

Montgomery, who's anxious to get a crack at Jenkins with the title on the line, might have whipped the Texas Thumper last September in their first party. But after dropping Lew, he went into a crouch and blew a close 10-round decision, because he couldn't punch cleanly from that awkward stance.

No one can say Bob Montgomery doesn't learn his lessons," he said as he wound up his current training chores.

And Jenkins, himself, is taking the tussle so seriously that he actually has put his motorcycle in the garage until after the fight, for which pedestrians and Promoter Mike Jacobs both are breathing sighs of relief.

Ol' Diz May Leave Majors Tomorrow

Chicago, May 14.—(P)—James Gallagher, general manager of the Chicago Cubs, announced today that Dizzy Dean, one of baseball's most sensational characters of the last decade, had requested that he be placed on the voluntary retired list.

Chicago, May 14.—(P)—Dizzy Dean, baseball's most sensational character of the past decade, never had a more ardent admirer than Jimmy Wilson.

But this same Wilson, one-time battery-mate and tutor of Dean and now manager of the Chicago Cubs, must decide whether the once-great and eccentric right-hander is to be cast adrift. Tomorrow is the deadline for cutting row is the deadline for cutting row is the deadline for cutting row.

If I felt it was just for me alone, all of it, why, I'm not sure I—what I mean is, it's a tribute more to baseball than to any one person, the way I see it.

"Things like that make a fellow want to keep on trying in spite of all the disappointments. Of course, I do want to keep going, anyway. I do so want one more good team. And I think I have more enthusiasm for it all this year than ever before."

Clarendon

Clarendon, May 13—Julius Sundell, from Jamestown, spent some time visiting friends here last week.

On Sunday, May 4, Mr. and Mrs. John Rowley entertained at a family dinner at their home in honor of their son, Sidney Culbertson, who expects to go in army training on May 17th.

Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Harold Healy and son, Gerald, Mr. and Mrs. George Topper and Miss Gwendolyn Gilly, all of Warren; Mr. and Mrs. William Bemis and daughter, Carol, from North East; Mrs. Florence Bemis, from Erie; Arthur Wilson, from Coryville, and the honored guest.

John Bish, who has been employed by the Bradford Penn Refining Company, has accepted a position with the Pennsylvania railroad.

A large class from the Clarendon grade school is preparing for the 8th grade graduation exercises which will take place in the Odd Fellows hall on the evening of May 22nd.

Those who are expected to graduate are: Ruth Campbell, Robert Lindsey, Mary Louise Ficus, Margaret Wilson, Simon Huchabone, Dean Bullock, Norma Reed, Avonelle Larson, Joyce Reed, Wilda Belle Haag, Kenneth Larson, Frances Burdick, Paul Lane, Patricia Mead, Nora Dickerson.

Dean Whittaker, Sammy Notoro, Lewis Nobles, Alma Ann Burkhardt, Chester Miaski, Dorothy Johnson, Richard Fisk, Jack Larson and Margaret Irwin. The class has worked in various ways to earn enough money to finance a trip to Niagara Falls and expect to leave early Saturday morning, May 17, returning home late that night.

Mrs. Polly Falbriski and son, Leonard, and daughter, Julia, motored to Pittsburgh and spent the weekend visiting relatives there.

Tony Murano, of Brown avenue, has purchased the Swedish Lutheran church building and expects to remodel it into a dwelling house.

The 4-H Club officers attended a demonstration meeting in Warren on Friday evening, May 2, at the Y. M. C. A. The meeting was a very instructive one and much enjoyed by all. They will meet again on the evening of May 15 at the home of Mrs. John Rowley.

The Rev. Emerson Jones spoke at the P. T. A. meeting in Tiona on Thursday evening.

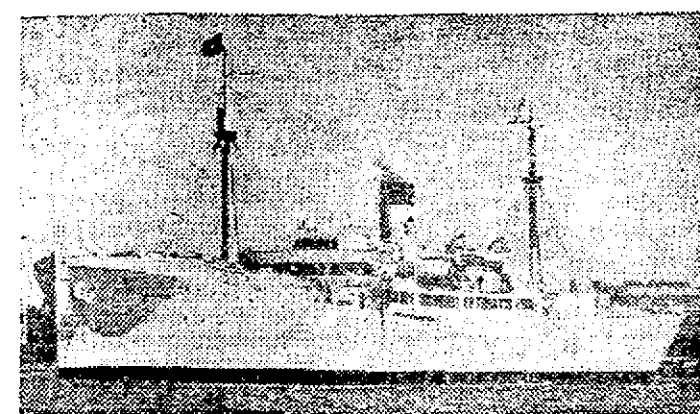

The members of the Philatelic Bible class met in the Methodist church parlors on Monday evening with 16 present. Devotions were in charge of Mrs. Clara Nielson. A business meeting was then held in which the class decided to purchase new hymn books for the church. The meeting was then turned over to the program committee. U. S. TRAINS YOUTHS FOR SEA

The United States Maritime Service is meeting the threatened shortage of skilled merchant seamen by training youths who have had no previous seagoing experience. Young American citizens in good physical condition 18 to 23 years of age are being enrolled for a seven months' course of instruction in the duties of the deck, engineers, and stewards departments. Enrollees are paid $21.00 monthly; clothing, food, and quarters are furnished by the Government.

The training course qualifies these young men for jobs on American merchant vessels where pay starts at $72.50 a month with food and quarters furnished. For detailed information write to U. S. MARITIME SERVICE, WASHINGTON, D. C.

Lou Boudreau Homers In Tenth To Win For Bob Feller

Yanks Edged 2 to 1; Dodgers Down Reds For Sixth In A Row

BY JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Sports Editor

Bob Feller came to the Cleveland Indians six years ago labeled a marvel. He was 16 and fresh off a farm at Van Meter, Iowa.

Instead of undergoing a seasoning process in the minors like, say Lefty Grove, Feller's first step in organized baseball was in the big arena of the American League.

Because of this it is too little time for this big, earnest boy to absorb the polish expected of a major league pitcher. He had an amazing fast ball, a minimum of control and only a vague idea that games could be won with less than a dozen or 15 strikeouts.

He still is learning, but there no longer is the faintest doubt that he is the best pitcher in the major leagues. The only question is what ultimate goal he will reach—whether some day he may be considered the greatest of all time.

He led the Indians yesterday to a 2-1 10-inning decision over the New York Yankees. It was his sixth victory against two defeats.

Feller allowed just six hits and fanned nine. The Indians scored off Marius Russo in the second inning, but an unearned run by the Yanks in the sixth tied the score. Feller just clamped down till Lou Boudreau hit a homer in the tenth to win.

The Chicago White Sox nosed out the Boston Red Sox, 3-2, and took over second place behind the Indians. John Rigney held Boston to four hits, two of them home runs by Jim Foxx and Ted Williams.

The Washington Senators squeezed past the Detroit Tigers, 5-4, by rallying for all their runs in the fifth and sixth innings, knocking Buck Newsom out of the box on the way. Young Sid Hudson allowed only three hits, but walks and errors helped Detroit take a four-run lead in the first three frames.

The Athletics hammered out a 7-3 verdict over the St. Louis Browns behind the seven-hit hurling of Jack Knott.

In the National League the speeding Brooklyn Dodgers cut down the Cincinnati Reds, 4-3, for their sixth straight victory. Chunky Hugh Casey limited the weak-hitting world champions to six hits in achieving his fifth win without defeat. The Dodgers got just eight off Bucky Walters.

This defeat, sixth in eight games, dropped the Reds into the second division as the rejuvenated Chicago

Cubs bumped off the Boston Braves, 4-3, to take fourth place. The St. Louis Cardinals punched out a 3-2 triumph over the third-place New York Giants for Mort Cooper's fourth victory. Carl Hubbell allowed the Cardinals only five hits in seven innings, but two of these were doubles by Johnny Mize, each scoring a run. After Hub had been removed for a pinch-hitter in a rally that tied the score in the eighth, Walter (Jumbo) Brown was needed for the winning run in the ninth on an error, a sacrifice and a single by Jimmy Brown.

The Pittsburgh Pirates broke their losing streak in a 6-3 farce with the Phillies. Each team made 10 hits and four errors.

Bucs Beat Deadline By Dropping Three

Pittsburgh, May 14—(AP)—With the release of three players, Manager Frankie Frisch had the Pittsburgh Pirates down to the 25-limit today a bit ahead of the May 15 deadline.

The Pirates sold Pitcher Dick Lananah, a southpaw, to the St. Paul Saints and optioned a promising young right hander, Bill Clemensen, to the same team. Earlier, they sent Catcher Joe Schultz to Portland of the Pacific Coast League, where two other Bucs, Long Johnny Gee, a southpaw, and Dick Conger already are getting more seasoning.

The wireless telegraph station at Mexico City is equipped to communicate with all countries of the world.

SPORT SCATTERINGS

BY HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Service Sports Editor

When there is something new in racing, it is introduced in progressive California.

The latest innovation at Hollywood Park is motion pictures of races in their entirety.

The plan requires eight patrol judges, each equipped with a combination binocular-camera.

Back at Hollywood Park, George Strate, veteran handler, gives Jimmy Wilson, Negro exercise boy, credit for Staretor's surprising second in the Kentucky Derby.

Strate got Wilson from the famous trainer, Jimmy Rowe. Wilson galloped Whichone, which Harry Payne Whitney regarded as the finest horse he ever owned.

Jimmy Wilson knows how to rate a horse to precision. He taught Staretor how to be rated, which is why the tall and strong reddish chestnut son of Messenger left all but Whirlaway behind in a record-breaking race.

If he had to single out the one man most responsible for Brooklyn's sustained spurt, Leo Durocher would name Arnold Owen. Baseball writers guffawed when Mickey Owen was purchased from the Cardinals last winter and Lippy Durocher remarked that he would not trade the Missouri farmer for Harry the Horse Danning of the Giants.

Durocher wouldn't make the deal today. Neither would a lot of other baseball men. Owen has taken the place of Durocher, the bench manager, on the field.

In the thick of things daily, he keeps the Flatbush flock hustling. He talks to the pitcher, shouts to the infielders, throws to the bases. He's going all the time.

The Dodgers will not fall asleep as long as Mickey Owen is around. Frank Strafaci, the crack amateur now soldiering at Fort Hamilton, not far from his Brooklyn home, advises average week-end golfers to study the games of Samuel Jackson Snead and Ben Hogan.

Watching Snead and Hogan take their wide arc swings, you see the wheels go round. They make ideal study subjects because of their accentuation of backswing, body turn, wrist action and follow through.

It's difficult to pick out component parts of the swing when you are looking at a small arc swinger.

Ben Hogan's exaggerated follow through presents such a glaring contrast to the average golfer's stilted finish that it affords observers convincing visual evidence of their own shortcomings.

May 14, 1921—The whole community of Sheffield is expected to be present at Al Martin's next boxing show to see their favorite, Albert Fox, tangle with Young Bagley, of Jamestown. Bill Paris and George Olson, Warren fighters, have been excused from their occupations to train for their respective bouts.

May 14, 1931—Hear ye! Hear ye! Tomorrow is the anniversary of the birth of Samuel Montgomery McClure, secretary of the mushball league and manager of Ritchie's Rioters. The eminent citizen will be at the post office from nine until noon to accept congratulations.

Sports Round-up

BY EDDIE BRIETZ
New York, May 14—(The Special News Service)—Favorite topic of conversation when American and National Leaguers meet is whether Del Baker or Charlie Dresser is the best signal-snatcher.

Looks like a field of more than 160 for the National Open next month. If Eddie Arcazo doesn't ride Whirlaway in the Belmont Stakes, George Woolf will probably get the mount.

Chicago scribes are hinting that Lou Novikoff and his bale of press clippings are to be shipped back to Los Angeles. One more appeal to Henry Armstrong: Please see Tony Canzoneri before you attempt that comeback.

Is This a Record?
U. of North Carolina tennis players believe they hold a national collegiate record—51 consecutive wins since their last defeat in May, 1938. Also, their 97 per cent 14-203 victories, six defeats and two ties.

Come and Get It
Some folks just don't care what they do with their dough—Mutuel tickets worth $5,203 were not cashed during the Jamaica meeting. The rumor foundry now says the Tigers canned Dick Bartell because he was feuding with Del Baker over the number of cuts he was to get in batting practice.

Sounds silly, but there you are. Pictures of the last Sugar Bowl game are booked solid through August. If Buddy Baer feels like it, he can give Joe Louis as tough a time as the champ has had since the "Bum-of-the-Month" Club was organized. Gabe Paul secretary of the Cincinnati Reds, says he got that shiner when he hit himself with the receiver of his face phone. Well, we've heard better than that.

Today's Guest Star
John Mooney, Salt Lake City Telegraph: "Clark Griffith ought to capture the Prize Snapshots With Kodak Verichrome Film"

to rate a spire taller than the Washington monument if his Senators ever get in the first division again. After all, George only saved his country, which looks easy compared with saving the Nats.

People You Know
Dolly Stark, the reformed umpire, now does promotion work for a Bridgeport fabric foundry. Chuck Hain, skating partner of Betty Atkinson in the new edition of "It Happened On Ice," formerly was city golf champ and country club pro at Iowa City, Iowa.

And Sonny Tufts, singing star in the Glass Hat Room at the Belmont Plaza here, is the same young man who starred on the 1935 Yale crew. Some of Harry Martone's 10 children will act as his seconds when he boxes an exhibition with Benny Leonard tonight at Jersey City. Mose Simms, ex-St. Marys, Texas, coach, is taking a two-months vacation to choose between offers from an air line, a baseball chain, a radio chain and a manufacturing company. Philly fans are drumming up a "day" for Pitcher Hugh Mulcahy, now doing an army hitch.

Dam Those Sox
Thirteen winners left on bases! Yep, the Yanks should hide their faces.

Always Something New
One of the Coney Island joints will promote a fight between mid-gut and advertised it as being for the underweight championship of the world.

Lutherans On Top In League Tussle
The Lutherans went into a tie for first place in the Church Muehl League last night by taking a 7-5 decision from the Phalanx Fraternity.

Cliff Johnson and Jim Frantz were the battery for the winners, with Smith and Schatzle on the hill for the losers with Lauffenburger behind the bat.

Yesterday's Stars
Lou Boudreau, Indians—His home run in tenth inning beat Yankees.

Jim Brown, Cardinals—Single home winning run in ninth inning against Giants.

Bob Johnson, Athletics—Hit homer in first frame to lead assault on Browns.

Hank Leiber, Cubs—Hit two-run homer and waited out walk that forced in winning run against the Braves.

Sid Hudson, Senators—Pitched three hit ball to beat Tigers.

Frank Gustine, Pirates—Drove in three runs with two hits to high-light attack on Phillies.

John Rigney, White Sox—Held Red Sox to four hits and scored two runs himself.

Hugh Casey, Dodgers—Scattered six hits against Reds for fifth victory without defeat.

Someday I'll Find You

YESTERDAY: At least Ellen had a chance, on her honeymoon in Hawaii, to capture the interest of her playboy husband, rich Martin Dane. But now Caroline Dempster, who has assumed all her life that she would marry Martin, has arrived. And Caroline refuses to believe Ellen married Martin for love and not his money, and has infuriated Ellen by demanding that she accept a settlement and get out.

Chapter 25

Casual Husband

UP IN the low wind-swept, luxurious rooms, with Martin's cigarette still smoking upon the ash tray and his raincoat thrown across a chair, she faced it.

Nobody knew what she had said to Martin that night in the taxi. He talked about honor, his word of honor. But he had betrayed her to Caroline.

That was the sort he was. Just what Caroline said: a changeable, irresponsible playboy whose outer manner and look and build talked by chance with what Ellen had secretly dreamed of all her life. But nothing real in him talked.

There had been a tramp and two snow leopards, and a near-drowning on a surfboard and a marriage with a florist's assistant from Third Avenue. And each of them had waked Martin up and made him excited and happy and glad for a little while. He hadn't been angry at what the ship-board people said. No, he had told Ellen. "I learned by the time I was six that people thought of my money first."

There was only one thing that would prove to him that she hadn't married him for alimony or a night-club spot or anything but caring for him. She was only the shell instead of the reality of what she'd thought him.

She rose and lifted Martin's portable, piled with his other luxurious gadgets. She was opening it when he came into the room. He had been playing tennis.

"Got back sooner than you thought?" he said, like any husband.

"Yes." She couldn't have it out with him. If she did, she'd be a weak idiot and stay, maybe. He stood there, smiling at her, swinging the racket and saying, "I like that pink hat. I bet that's the one I picked out myself."

She said what she never had before, desperately. "Martin, do you love me?"

He laughed and came over to her and tipped up her face and said, "Why wouldn't I?" with one of his light kisses. He crossed the room, chose another racket, and was going out whistling.

"Martin! If you hadn't married me, would you have married Caroline?"

He paused a moment at the door to answer her. "Why, I suppose so." The clear whistling went on more faintly from the hall; then stopped as the elevator door closed behind him.

She was walking up and down, she found, suddenly facing the wild small figure in the mirror, with her hands clenched and tears streaming down her face. This wouldn't do. Hurry, Martin might come back.

She changed. She packed quickly. Only as much as she needed to balance the clothes she had thrown away. Only as much ready money as would fly her to New York and leave her not destitute. No jewelry, none of Martin's presents.

She went to the typewriter again and managed a quiet note, as businesslike and cool as Caroline and Martin could need. It stated that she would never make any claim on Martin for money. That she wanted no alimony. That she promised never to use his name to get anywhere in any sort of career. That he was to get a divorce, and that she would communicate with him about it, but only on the promise that he wouldn't try to see her for any reason.

She suggested that he explain that she had been called back by the serious illness of a relative. She slipped the tiny gold ski inside.

Flight

SHE was lucky, she met nobody she knew on her way to the airport. She was luckier still in picking up a ticket at the very last possible moment, a cancellation. She wondered if Caroline had deliberately made their engagement briefest on this day, because it was Tuesday, and the plane went at noon Tuesdays.

Very likely. . . Like Caroline, which did not matter now. She gave her mother's name, Ellen Barnett. When the plane lifted, she sat back in her seat with a shiver. That was the end of all that.

She never remembered much afterwards, about the flight or the landing at San Francisco or the train across country. She must have gone through it all properly, an inconspicuous small silent girl in a rough coat and down-pulled beret.

The first thing she woke to with actual clearness was finding herself, like a cat with a honing instinct, before Aristides' shop. She was standing there, with her shoulder aching from the weight of her suitcase, her feet in the thawing snow, staring through the glass where yellow acacia and tall bright gladioli made a fine if inexpensive show.

She could see Rita, sleek and dark and quick as ever, darting about at his work. She had almost gone in when she remembered that she couldn't.

Caroline had said in so many words that she and Aristides were in love, were planning on the money to be extracted from Martin. So had the man and girl on the ship. "She'll go back to some original dream man." For Molly's and Aristides' and her own sake that was out.

Martin had seen to it that she gave Molly a check for a matter of course. He had seemed to suppose as a matter of course, also, that Aunt Louise, at her school-teaching in Colorado, would expect and take money.

Ellen was fiercely glad, there in the ray evening, that Aunt Louise had with frank surprise, refused it. But that refusal meant that she could no more go home than before. For the present she must even stay away from Molly Flanagan. That would be the first place Caroline's and Martin's lawyers would think of. They would feel that, hooked up again with Molly and Aristides, she was the gold digger everybody thought her.

Whereas she had only been a desperate, romantic little fool. She was yet when she thought about Martin Dane. She moved slowly away in the dusk, an outcast—an outsider—as regards both her worlds.

In stories, Bill Grant, who had dashed off to Spain, because he'd been in love with her, would suddenly appear and take over. But Bill Grant was in Spain. And if he started up on the pavement this minute she couldn't do anything about it, never having had the slightest inkling in Bill Grant's mild liking. She wouldn't take a chance on the Jordan Esch thing happening again.

Delevar Agaid

SHE finally found a temporary room at the Y.W.C.A.

Waking next day, miserable with a horrible dry-eyed misery, she yet had a clear plan in her mind. There was one place where she could and would go.

It took Ellen Barnett, even when she had said she had a message from Mrs. Martin Dane, a long time to fight through the tangle of careful secretarial barriers which protected Lewis Delevar from unforeseen callers.

The important Mr. Delevar of the Williston Institute, it was borne in on her, differed from the man who danced worse than any of the Adirondack house party whom she had fought almost contemptuously over Martin. Yet who—this was her safeguard—who would be glad to hide her whereabouts and her doings from Martin to the end of time.

Finally she was in a straight-backed chair with light pouring down on her from a great office window in a small acoustically bare room. Lewis faced her from behind his desk. His dark rugged face was blank and unfriendly, after its flash of surprise. All right, Open instead of secret unfriendliness was a relief.

"What can I do for you, Mrs. Dane?" he asked stiffly.

"What you promised before I married Martin. I want a job."

"I'm sorry if cafe-society has palled; but the institute has a principle against society volunteers."

"My marriage is washed up. I want a paid job. She hurried on before he could refuse again.

"You were right about my being a fool to want to marry him. He did it the same way he brought home two snow leopards once. The way he took in a tramp once. Just wanted to see what a gold digger was like close to him. I won't take a cent from him. I've written him so over my signature. Caroline's down there, he spilled it all to her. I was just a slight break in their lifelong engagement. Mr. Delevar, you hate me as much as you do Caroline, but you have a stake in getting me a job here under another name, freeing Martin from me quietly. Find me work. Handle the divorce without telling Martin where I am."

Lewis was around the desk, his deep magnetic voice suddenly warm.

"Ellen, I do believe in you now! I always knew you could be this sort at bottom. I never hated you. I'll help you, guide you, show you how to help others." He stood over her, tall and rugged, taking both her hands.

She left the office, to return next day, with Lewis Delevar's deep voice ringing hearteningly in her ears. "You're going to have a new life, a worthwhile life, full of big things, not little personal ones."

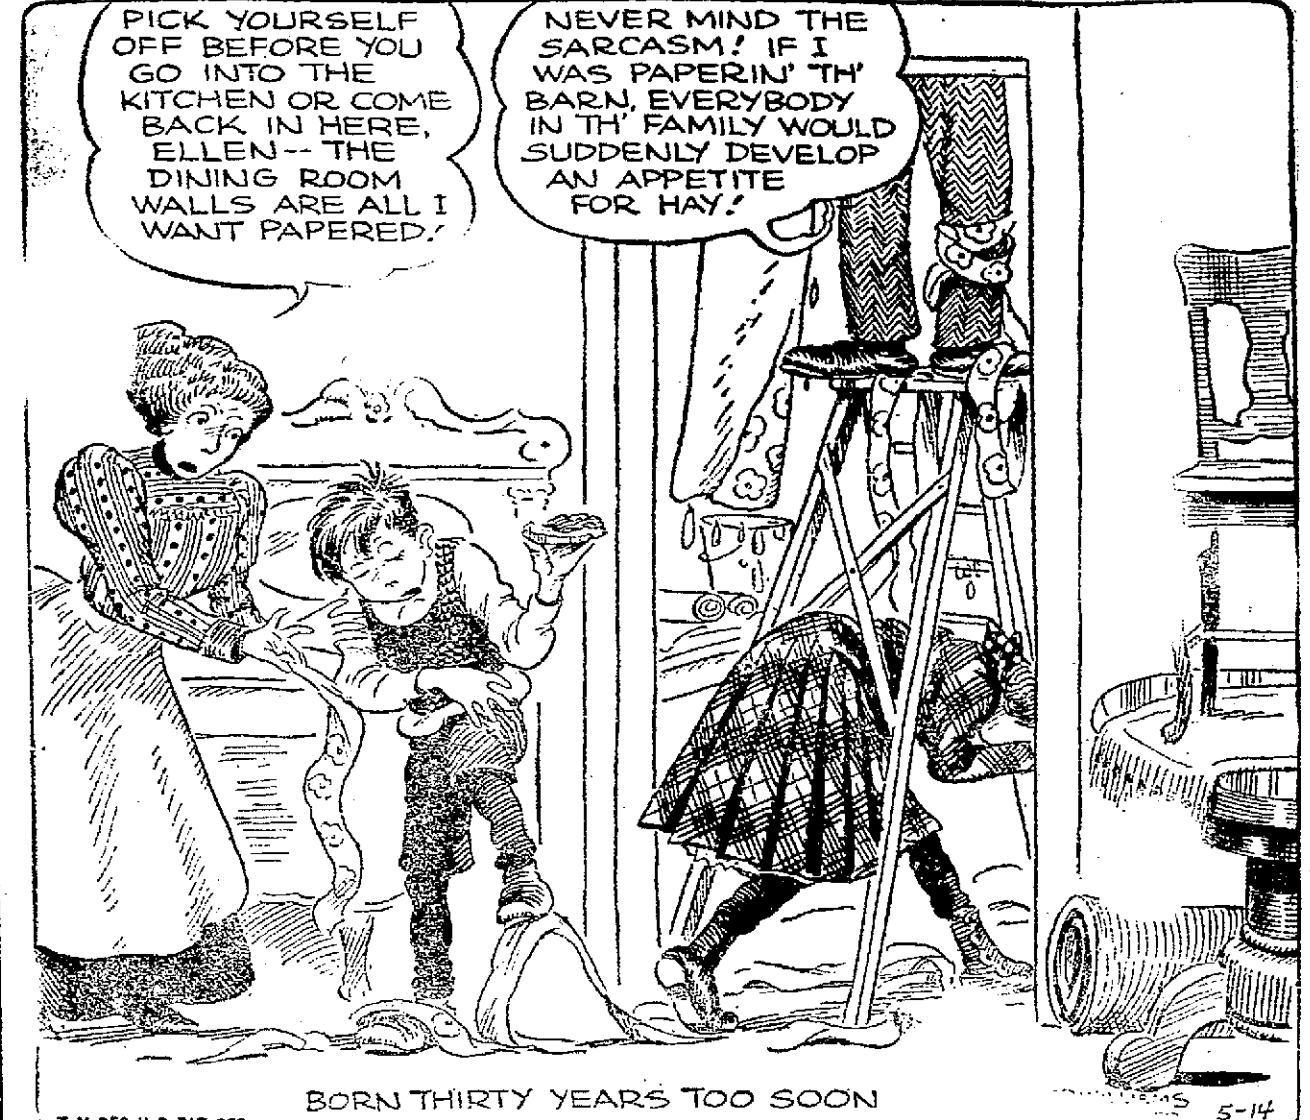

As she stared at the bright subway cards, sitting wedged between a fat Negro woman and a long-bearded old man in sweat-smelling clothes, she suddenly wanted the little personal things in a terrible backwash of feeling. Martin's soft laugh, his amused voice in her ears, his face against hers, just taking what he could get from an affectionate little adventuress. . . "Sweet kid."

She closed and made herself stop thinking that voice. A new life. A worth-while life.

Since the assassination of Abraham Lincoln, it has been the custom for the president and vice president of the United States never to expose themselves at the same time, if possible. They never ride the same train together, for instance.

PHILADELPHIAN GETS CRACK AT JENKINS FRIDAY

New York, May 14.—(P)—Bob Montgomery came within a "stoop" and a slightly-bent pair of knees of beating Lightweight Champion Lew Jenkins the last time they tangled, and now that he has another chance he isn't going to make the same mistake.

The "Philadelphia Henry Armstrong" gave the fans a promise and Jenkins a threat today by explaining he won't fight out of a crouch in their 10-round over-weight return go Friday in Madison Square Garden, but will be standing so he can toss bombs from any angle.

Such being the case, there are going to be a lot of fireworks night after tomorrow. Both of these fellows can deal 'em off the right arm just dandy. Bob showed that when he popped Lew the last time and put him down glassy-eyed for a count of nine. And no one has questioned the sleeping powders packed by the Sweet-water Swatter.

Montgomery, who's anxious to get a crack at Jenkins with the title on the line, might have whipped the Texas Thumper last September in their first party. But after dropping Lew, he went into a crouch and blew a close 10-round decision, because he couldn't punch cleanly from that awkward stance.

"No one can say Bob Montgomery doesn't learn his lessons," he said as he wound up his current training chores.

And Jenkins, himself, is taking the tussle so seriously that he actually has put his motorcycle in the garage until after the fight, for which pedestrians and Promoter Mike Jacobs both are breathing sighs of relief.

CONNIE MACK IS TO BE HONORED NEXT SATURDAY

Philadelphia, May 14.—(P)—World Series trimmings are in store for Connie Mack Day Saturday when this City of Brotherly Love pays tribute to the 79-year-old manager of the Athletics.

Heading a gathering of baseball's elite, Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis wired nothing could keep him away and that he was most honored to be able to pay homage to the game's "grandest character."

Hundreds of old time players as well as prominent figures connected with baseball will be on hand with throngs of Pennsylvanians.

Ol' Diz May Leave Majors Tomorrow

President Roosevelt has been invited but illness delayed his answer.

A statewide holiday will mark the occasion and no one will be turned away from Shibe Park where the Macks will engage Detroit as part of the fete. Fans will be seated on the field in case of an overflow crowd.

Citizens will present Connie a silver plaque with his own likeness etched against a baseball diamond. George M. Cohan will provide the lyric accompaniment, leading from home plate "It's a Grand Old Name", a song the actor has written in honor of his favorite manager.

Mack in all his years has never groped more haltingly to find words expressing his feelings.

"I'm just speechless," he says. "I know I haven't done anything to deserve a tribute like this and—well, I don't think I should be—well, to tell the truth, I'm a little bit embarrassed about it all."

If I felt it was just for me alone, all of it, why, I'm not sure I—what I mean is, it's a tribute more to baseball than to any one person, the way I see it.

"Things like that make a fellow want to keep on trying in spite of all the disappointments. Of course, I'd want to keep going, anyway. I do so want one more good team. And I think I have more enthusiasm for it all this year than ever before."

Chicago, May 14.—(P)—Dizzy Dean, baseball's most sensational character of the past decade, never had a more ardent admirer than Jimmy Wilson.

But this same Wilson, one-time battery-mate and tutor of Dean and now manager of the Chicago Cubs, must decide whether the once-great and eccentric right-hander is to be cast adrift. Tomorrow is the deadline for cutting his squad to 25 players. The Cubs now have 28 on their roster and Dean is among those well within reach of Wilson's pruning knife.

Dean 30 last January, was truly one of the game's greatest performers while with the St. Louis Cardinals through 1937, but he has been almost worthless since the Cubs acquired him for $185,000 and three players. He has won a total of 16 games in three seasons with the Cubs; in six years with the Cards he averaged 22 victories per season!

Clarendon

Clarendon, May 13.—Julius Sundell, from Jamestown, spent some time visiting friends here last week.

On Sunday, May 4, Mr. and Mrs. John Rowley entertained at a family dinner at their home in honor of their son, Sidney Culbertson, who expects to go in army training on May 17th. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Harold Healy and son, Gerald, Mr. and Mrs. George Topper and Miss Gwendolyn Gilly, all of Warren; Mr. and Mrs. William Bemis and daughter, Carol, from North East; Mrs. Florence Bemis, from Erie; Arthur Wilson, from Coryville, and the honored guest.

John Bish, who has been employed by the Bradford Penn Refining Company, has accepted a position with the Pennsylvania railroad.

A large class from the Clarendon grade school is preparing for the 8th grade graduation exercises which will take place in the Odd Fellows hall on the evening of May 22nd. Those who are expected to graduate are: Ruth Campbell, Robert Lindsey, Mary Louise Ficus, Margaret Wilson, Simon Hucabone, Dean Bullock, Norma Reed, Avonelle Larson, Joyce Reed, Wilda Belle Haag, Kenneth Larson, Frances Burdick, Paul Lane, Patricia Mead, Nora Dickerson.

Dean Whittaker, Sammy Notoro, Lewis Nobles, Alma Ann Burkhardt, Chester Miasli, Dorothy Johnson, Richard Fisk, Jack Larson and Margaret Irwin. The class has worked in various ways to earn enough money to finance a trip to Niagara Falls and expect to leave early Saturday morning, May 17, returning home late that night.

Mrs. Polly Falbriski and son, Leonard, and daughter, Julia, motored to Pittsburgh and spent the weekend visiting relatives there.

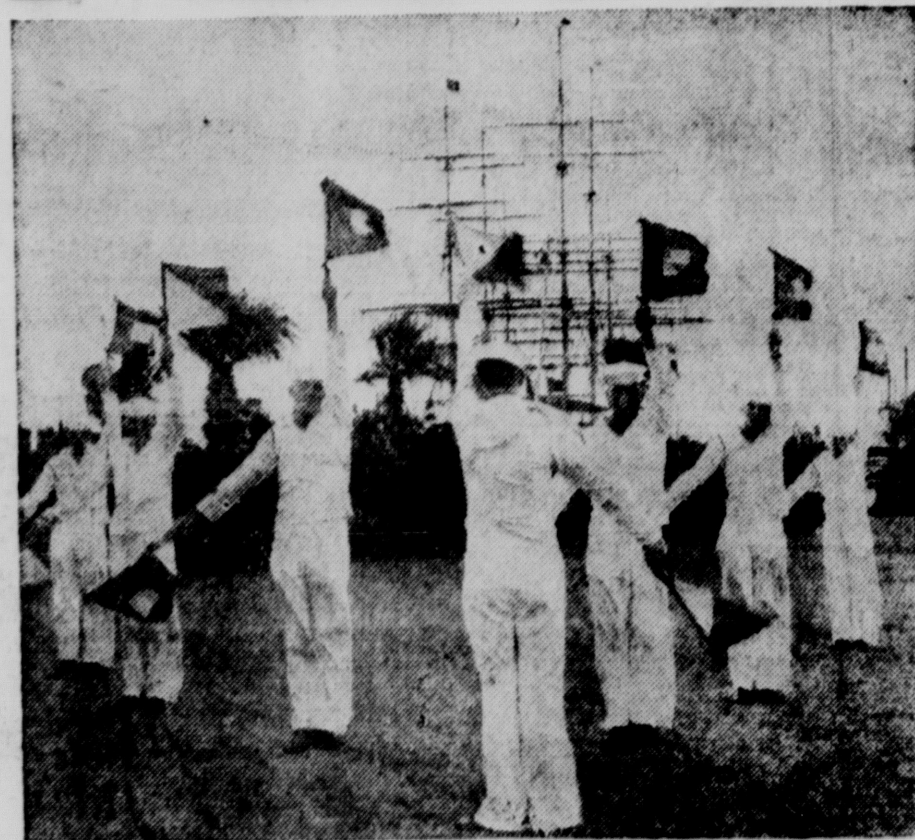

Tony Murano, of Brown avenue, has purchased the Swedish Lutheran church building and expects to remodel it into a dwelling house.

The 4-H Club officers attended a demonstration meeting in Warren on Friday evening, May 2, at the Y. M. C. A. The meeting was a very instructive one and much enjoyed by all. They will meet again on the evening of May 15 at the home of Mrs. John Rowley.

The Rev. Emerson Jones spoke at the P. T. A. meeting in Tiona on Thursday evening.

The members of the Philathea Bible class met in the Methodist church parlors on Monday evening with 16 present. Devotions were in charge of Mrs. Clara Nelson. A business meeting was then held in which the class decided to purchase new hymn books for the church. The meeting was then turned over to the program committee, Mrs. Helen Bimber and (Turn to Page Twelve)

U. S. TRAINS YOUTHS FOR SEA

The United States Maritime Service is meeting the threatened shortage of skilled merchant seamen by training youths who have had no previous seagoing experience.

Young American citizens in good physical condition 18 to 23 years of age are being enrolled for a seven months' course of instruction in the duties of the deck engineers, and stewards departments. Enrollees are paid $21.00 monthly; clothing, food, and quarters are furnished by the Government.

The training course qualifies these young men for jobs on American merchant vessels where pay starts at $72.50 a month with food and quarters furnished.

Someday I'll Find You

YESTERDAY: At least Ellen had a chance, on her honeymoon in Hawaii, to capture the interest as well as the affection of her play-boy husband, rich Martin Dane. But now Caroline Dempster, who has assumed her life that she would marry Martin, has arrived. And Caroline refuses to believe Ellen married Martin for love and not his money, and has infuriated Ellen by demanding that she accept a settlement, and get out.

Chapter 25

Casual Husband

UP IN the low wind-swept, luxurious rooms, with Martin's cigarette still smoking upon the ash tray and his raincoat thrown across a chair, she faced it.

Nobody knew what she had said to Martin that night in the taxi. He talked about honor, his word of honor. But he had betrayed her to Caroline.

That was the sort he was. Just what Caroline said: a changeable, irresponsible playboy whose outer manner and look and build tallied by chance with what Ellen had secretly dreamed of all her life. But nothing real in him tallied.

There had been a tramp and two snow leopards, and a near-drowning on a surfboard and a marriage with a florist's assistant from Third Avenue. And each of them had waked Martin up and made him excited and happy and alive for a little while. He hadn't been angry at what the shipboard people said. No, he had told Ellen, "I learned by the time I was six that people thought of my money first."

There was only one thing that would prove to him that she hadn't married him for alimony or a night-club spot or anything but caring. Even though he was only the shell instead of the reality of what she'd thought him.

She rose and lifted Martin's portable, piled with his other luxurious gadgets. She was opening it when he came into the room. He had been playing tennis.

"Got back sooner than you thought?" he said, like any husband.

"Yes." She couldn't have it out with him. If she did, she'd be a weak idiot and stay, maybe. He stood there, smiling at her, swinging the racket and saying, "I like that pink hat. I bet that's the one I picked out myself."

She said what she never had before, desperately. "Martin, do you love me?"

He laughed and came over to her and tipped up her face and said, "Why wouldn't I?" with one of his light kisses. He crossed the room, chose another racket, and was going out whistling. She said, "Martin! If you hadn't married me, would you have married Caroline?"

He paused a moment at the door to answer her. "Why, I suppose so." The clear whistling went on, more faintly, from the hall; then stopped as the elevator door closed behind him.

She was walking up and down the hall, suddenly facing the wild small figure in the mirror, with her hands clenched and tears streaming down her face. This wouldn't do. Hurry. Martin might come back.

She changed. She packed quickly. Only as much as she needed to balance the clothes she had thrown away. Only as much ready money as would fly her to New York and leave her not destitute. No jewelry, none of Martin's presents.

She went to the typewriter again and managed a quiet note, as businesslike and cool as Caroline and Martin could need. It stated that she would never make any claim on Martin for money. That she wanted no alimony. That she promised never to use his name to get anywhere in any sort of career. That he was to get a divorce, and that she would communicate with him about it, but only on the promise that he wouldn't try to see her for any reason.

She suggested that he explain that she had been called back by the serious illness of a relative. She slipped the tiny gold ski inside.

Flight

SHE was lucky, she met nobody she knew on her way to the airport. She was luckier still in picking up a ticket at the very last possible moment, a cancellation. She wondered if Caroline had deliberately made their engagement breakfast on this day, because it was Tuesday, and the plane went at noon Tuesdays.

Very likely. . . Like Caroline. Which did not matter now. She gave her mother's name, Ellen Barnett. When the plane lifted, she sat back in her seat with a shiver. That was the end of all that.

She never remembered much, afterwards, about the flight or the landing at San Francisco or the train across country. She must have gone through it all properly, an inconspicuous small silent girl in a rough coat and down-pulled beret.

The first thing she woke to with actual clearness was finding herself, like a cat with a homing instinct, before Aristides' shop. She was standing there, with her shoulder aching from the weight of her suitcase, her feet in the thawing snow, staring through the glass where yellow acacia and tall bright gladioli made a fine if inexpensive show.

She could see his sleek and dark and quick as ever, darting about at his work. She had almost gone in when she remembered that she couldn't.

Caroline had said in so many words that she and Aristides were in love; were planning on the money to be extracted from Martin. So had the man and girl on the ship. "She'll go back to some original dream man," for Molly's and Aristides' and her own sake that was out.

Martin had seen to it that she gave Molly a check as a matter of course. He had seemed to suppose as a matter of course, also, that Aunt Louise, at her school-teaching in Colorado, would expect and take money.

Ellen was fiercely glad, there in the raw evening, that Aunt Louise had, with frank surprise, refused it. But that refusal meant that she could no more go home than before. For the present she must even stay away from Molly Flanagan. That would be the first place Caroline's and Martin's lawyers would think of. They would feel that, hooked up again with Molly and Aristides, she was the gold digger everybody thought her.

Whereas she had only been a desperate, romantic little fool. She was yet, when she thought about Martin Dane. She moved slowly away in the dusk, an outcast—an outsider—as regards both her worlds.

In stories, Bill Grant, who had dashed off to Spain, because he'd been in love with her, would suddenly appear and take over. But Bill Grant was in Spain. And if he started up on the pavement this minute she couldn't do anything about it, never having had the slightest interest in Bill Grant beyond a mild liking. She wouldn't take a chance on the Jordan Estill thing happening again.

Delevarn Again

SHE finally found a temporary room at the Y.W.C.A. Waking next day, miserably with a horrible dry-eyed misery, she yet had a clear plan in her mind. There was one place where she could and would go.

It took Ellen Barnett, even when she had said she had a message from Mrs. Martin Dane, a long time to fight through the tangle of careful secretarial barriers which protected Lewis Delevarn from unforeseen callers.

The important Mr. Delevarn of the Williston Institute, it was borne in on her, differed from the man who danced worse than any of the Adirondack house party, whom she had fought almost contemptuously over Martin. Yet who—this was her safeguard—who would be glad to hide her whereabouts and her doings from Martin to the end of time.

Finally she was in a straight-backed chair, with light pouring down on her from a great office window in a small, sparsely bare room. Lewis faced her from behind his desk. His dark rugged face was blank and unfriendly, after its flash of surprise. All right. Open instead of secret unfriendliness was a relief.

"What can I do for you, Mrs. Dane?" he asked, stiffly.

"What you promised before I married Martin. I want a job."

"I'm sorry if cafe-society has palled; but the institute has a principle against society volunteers."

"My marriage is washed up. I want a paid job. She hurried on before he could refuse again. "You were right about my being a fool to want to marry him. He did it the same way he brought home two snow leopards once. The way he took in a tramp once. Just wanted to see what a gold digger was like close to."

"I won't take a cent from him. I've written him so over my signature. Caroline's down there, he spilled it all to her. I was just a slight break in their lifelong engagement. Mr. Delevarn, you hate me as much as you do Caroline, but you have a stake in getting me a job here under another name, freeing Martin from me quietly. Find me work. Handle the divorce without telling Martin where I am."

Lewis was around the desk, his deep magnetic voice suddenly warm.

"Ellen, I do believe in you now! I always knew you could be this sort at bottom. I never hated you. I'll help you, guide you, show you how to help others." He stood over her, tall and rugged, taking both her hands.

She left the office, to return next day, with Lewis Delevarn's deep voice ringing hearteningly in her ears. "You're going to have a new life, a worthwhile life, full of big things, not little personal ones."

As she stared at the bright subway cards, sitting wedged between a fat Negro woman and a long-bearded old man in sweat-smelling clothes, she suddenly wanted the little personal things in a terrible backwash of feeling. Martin's soft laugh, his amused voice in her ears, his face against hers. Not believing any good of her, just taking what he could get from an affectionate little adventures . . . "Sweet kid."

She braced, and made herself stop hearing his voice.

A new life. A worth-while life.

Mrs. Katherine Blocher Selected For Metzger-Wright's Honor Club

Pulling the cord that unveiled the anniversary 45th number of Katherine Blocher better known as Kate an employee of the Metzger-Wright store for 35 years was selected as the 1941 member of the store's Honor Club. The ceremony of the unveiling of the name which signals the opening of an annual Anniversary Sale took place Tuesday afternoon on the fourth floor of the store during the anniversary assembly of all workers.

Mrs. Blocher who lives in Taft Place was born in Buffalo, N. Y. later moving to Dunkirk and then from where she came to Warren. She was married to William Blocher who died during the first year of their marriage. Mrs. Blocher has one daughter, Miss Mary Blocher at home.

Mrs. Katherine Blocher

Mrs. Blocher first started working for the Metzger-Wright Company in the old store under Mrs. Hogan in the alteration department, later coming to the new store where she became head of the alteration department. Every one knows that if Mrs. Blocher fits one the garment will fit perfectly. Faithful service to the store and sincere practice of its ideals are qualifications for membership in the Honor Club and the request that W. H. Wright vice president and manager bases his selection upon. The Honor Club was started back in 1930 when Mrs. Maria Dahm was chosen as its first member.

The Anniversary Assembly program was under the supervision of Mrs. Anne McGarry. The assembly opened with a few words on the Anniversary Sale by W. H. Wright after which a number of old pieces were played for the music by Miss Julia Falbriski and the workers were asked to guess the name. Mr. Wright then explained the duties of the Anniversary Sale and each worker was called upon to present her preparations for the sale. Little Miss Andrea Wright presented the store with a birthday cake and sang "Happy Birthday to the Store."

Owen Unangst 1940 member of the Honor Club pinned the honor pin on Mrs. Blocher and she took her place among the honor members.

Before the assembly ended L. C. LeVan arose and with a few well-chosen words presented William H. Wright with an honor pin in commemoration of his fifteen years service to the store. Mr. LeVan spoke of Mr. Wright's untiring efforts in behalf of the store and of his bringing it through troublous times of the depression. Mr. Wright in accepting the pin spoke of the help he had received and the cooperation of the workers in the store.

After the singing of the anniversary theme song "Jeannine" and the receiving of the official anniversary store paper "The Lilac Times" the meeting came to an end and all enthusiastic to begin the Anniversary Sale this morning.

45th Anniversary SALE

METZGER-WRIGHT CO.

Every Year at Lilac Time

ALL Roads, North, South, East and West lead to Metzger-Wright's 45th Anniversary Sale which comes "Every Year at Lilac Time." It is the one time in all the year when all our friends from all the surrounding communities come to wish us well on our Anniversary. In 1896 the roads were all dirt roads and our friends came with horse and buggy, but today, the roads are all improved and our friends come in streamlined cars. There is a difference in transportation but not a difference in the good will . . . the same old friendliness prevails.

From the moment the doors opened at 8:45 this morning on our 45th Anniversary Sale we knew it was destined to be a success in every way. You came, you saw, and you bought. You came because you knew that here you would find big values as you always have at Metzger-Wright's. You saw all the many wonderful buys and so, you bought and saved many dollars. Nearly $100,000 of new merchandise was put on Sale. Merchandise especially bought for our 45th Anniversary Sale . . . at prices that can not be duplicated at a later date. We hope to see you tomorrow, and every day . . . to welcome you.

Join the Lilac Hunt

More than 200 gifts worth more than $500 will be given away to the industrious finders of those little lilac-shaped, lilac-colored tickets. You don't have to buy a thing. But you do have to look. No more than 2 prizes a day to any one family, or four for the entire Sale.

Lilac Tournament

Do lilacs bloom in your dooryard? Prizes of $3 in cash or $5 in merchandise for: 1, the Largest Bunch of Lilacs; 2, the most attractive Arrangement of Purple Lilacs; 3, the most attractive Arrangement of Purple with White Lilacs; 4, the most attractive Arrangement of Purple Lilacs with Other Flowers.

The Lilac Marathon

If you have a favorite salesperson, patronize her or him during the Sale. You may help your friend to win one of several large prizes in the Lilac Marathon, conducted for salespeople during the Anniversary.

WARREN--45 YEARS AGO

(NOTE This is the seventh of a series. Names in the news and little happenings taken from the Warren Evening Mirror bring to us in 1941 the atmosphere of 1896.)

One hat seen today boasted three feathers, two wings, eight roses, two clusters of violets, a jet ornament and a sort of jabot effect in lace. Yet from fashion's standpoint it was not over-crowded.

The soloists at St. Joseph's Sunday were the Misses Ella Dillon, Clara Masterson, Messrs. Joseph Gaughin and John Egan.

Some exquisite all-over designs in linen cost as much as $5 and $10 a yard.

On Arbor Day special programs were held in Warren's four school buildings. The programs included:

Arbor Day Tribute—V. F. Peterson
The Origin of Arbor Day—Van Ness Yates
Recitation "April Showers"—Blanch Jackson
Recitation "Autumn Leaves"—Florence Bennett
Chorus "The Leaf-let-me-not"
Planting the Tree—Eleanor Peterson Roy Greenlund
"Spring"—Mabel Valentine
"Spring Voice"—Percy E. Knapp
—remember any of these performances?

Summer was a Spring day and the hiverymen here did a lively business.

"And the maiden with a smile,
"Let me hold the lines awhile."

F. B. Jackson, city commissioner's clerk is sending out books for the assessors to register children of school age in accordance with the Compulsory Education Act.

John Hoggins, arrested Friday charged with practicing medicine without complying with the proper requirements fixed by law—quack, quack.

The summer girl does not get up her wardrobe cheaply any more. Her gowns must be stored and this means an outlay as great as in the winter.

—hooray for the shirts and shorts of 1891.

The 77th Anniversary of Odd Fellowship in America was celebrated with a Grand mass meeting held in the Opera House with a Fine Program and an Elegant Banquet a Brilliant Success.

Disenchanting at . . . there are up to them as in business . . . and the Godley books about worn out?

Mrs. Mabel Taylor. All enjoyed the various contests and games, also the composing of Mother's Day poems. A delicious lunch was then served by the hostesses Mrs. Gertrude Damm and Mrs. Mae Rowley. The next meeting which will be the last until fall will take place on June 2nd, and will be a tureen dinner. Election of officers will also take place at that time. Mr. and Mrs. William Wyckoff spent the weekend visiting at the Jones cottage at Bemis Point.

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Damm spent Sunday May 4th, visiting friends in Kane.

Mr. and Mrs. Dale Meldock have purchased the Charles Blair house on lower Main street and are remodeling it. They expect to move into it about the first of June.

Mr. and Mrs. Leo Goodaid and son Bob and Mr. and Mrs. Frank McCann and son and daughter, all from Erie were Sunday visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Howe.

Meet Public Demand With New General Tire

Rising payrolls and public buying power, plus the possibility of a rubber shortage have greatly increased the public demand for first-quality tires which will carry them through any emergency that might develop. To meet this challenge, the General Tire and Rubber Company has developed a new first-quality tire to be sold at the lowest price in General Tire history. Shown above with two of the first "New Dual Grip" tires produced is W. O'Neil, president of the General Tire and Rubber Company. In Warren General Tires are sold by the Emblem Oil Company.

Over Fifty Appropriation Bills to Raise Funds for Institutions Released

for the University of Pittsburgh; a general deficiency bill of $4,485,171; $1,485,000 for the University of Pennsylvania; $1,250,000 for Temple University; and $73,831 for the Eastern State Penitentiary.

Achteman said the six tax bills "will be passed early next week and sent to the senate."

The budget has been stalled in the House since Feb. 3. Governor James warned May 31, the end of the biennium might bring a payless payday on Capitol Hill.

Achteman said the general taxes which are permanent will bring in income and all we have to do is appropriate against them so there won't be any breakdown of the government.

The Senate and House spent most of yesterday's session in lengthy debate with little action on bills before adjourning until 12 noon and 1 p. m. (EST) respectively today.

The Senate passed and sent to the House a bill authorizing extension of the Pennsylvania turnpike to the Ohio state line.

(From Page One)
Swartz, who testified almost three hours yesterday, told of conferences with Robinson about the burglary and said Robinson suggested once that a Williamsport firm had "some mighty nice goods."

The witness told of breaking into the taxi company's place here, of taking the loot to DuBois, where Krantz refused to take it, and then finally of caching it at his own home in Altoona.

S. K. Williams, owner of the store, identified the 39 coats and neck pieces offered in evidence. State Motor Policeman Richard Gray said they all were found in Swartz' home. Nine pieces are missing.

Robinson, who has been at liberty on $15,000 bail since his arrest on April 9, has charged he is a victim of a "frameup."

STEEL WORKERS AT LACKAWANNA VOTING

Lackawanna, N. Y., May 14.—(AP)—Workers at Bethlehem Steel Company's Lackawanna plant voted today to determine whether they want to be represented in collective bargaining by the CIO Steel Workers Organizing Committee.

The election, ordered by the National Labor Relations Board after a 36-hour strike in February, is the first ever held in a Bethlehem steel plant. Approximately 13,000 of the mill's 14,000 employees are eligible to ballot.

Three polling places opened at 4 a. m. (EST), with policemen stationed at each, and will close at midnight. Counting of the ballots begins at 10 a. m. tomorrow.

On the North African war front, Premier Mussolini's High Command said that Italian troops "bravely repelled" a strong British tank assault in the Tobruk sector, Libya, where a British garrison has been under siege for five weeks. Six British tanks were reported destroyed.

Hitler's High Command said that in the Axis drive into Egypt, Nazi reconnaissance troops "thrust forward" to the east and south-east of Salum, near the Egyptian-Libyan frontier.

The Germans said Axis columns had knifed 45 miles into Egypt, starting Monday morning from Salum. By contrast, the British said yesterday that five Axis columns were driven back to Salum after penetrating 40 miles into the ancient land of the Pharaohs.

On the Iraq front, the British reported all quiet.

SHOTS DELETED IN NEWS REELS OF HESS

Berlin, May 14.—(AP)—Newsreel shots showing Rudolf Hess at the Messerschmitt plant at Augsburg May 1, announcing awards of the new Nazi "pioneer of labor" decorations were clipped yesterday from the films currently showing in Berlin movie houses.

There was a short sequence of him addressing workers in a huge hall with Messerschmitt planes as a background and later shaking hands with men honored.

The view still was included Monday night, when the first news of his flight broke, but had been removed by last night.

Senate passage would place the legislation before President Roosevelt for his decision within 10 days.

While the chief executive has taken no public stand on the loan bill, he declared in his January budget message to Congress that "the increased military expenditures permit a substantial reduction in non-defense expenditures."

Particularly for those activities which are made less necessary by improved economic conditions.

One of the arguments used to win speedy House approval was that higher government loans would force market prices up and permit Congress to hold down the amount of farm benefit payments which come directly from the treasury.

At St. Nazaire, a supply ship of 12,000 tons was said to have been hit amidships and set fire. Other explosives damaged dockside buildings. Two planes were missing in this raid.

Another German supply ship of about 2,000 tons was left in sinking condition, the British said, after an attack near the island of Ushant, off the Brittany coast.

Operations of the German air force over Great Britain were on a small scale for the second straight night last night.

Mrs. Katherine Blocher Selected For Metzger-Wright's Honor Club

Pulling the cord that unveiled the anniversary "45" numerals, Katherine Blocher, better known as "Kate", an employee of the Metzger-Wright store for 35 years, was selected as the 1941 member of the store's Honor Club. The ceremony of the unveiling of the numerals, which signals the opening of the annual Anniversary Sale, took place Tuesday afternoon on the fourth floor of the store during the anniversary assembly of all workers.

Mrs. Blocher, who lives in Taft Place, was born in Buffalo, N. Y., later moving to Dunkirk and Olean, from where she came to Warren. She was married to William Blocher, who died during the first year of their marriage. Mrs. Blocher has one daughter, Miss Mary Blocher, at home.

Mrs. Katherine Blocher

Mrs. Blocher first started working for the Metzger-Wright Company in the old store under Mrs. Hogan in the alteration department, later coming to the new store, where she became head of the alteration department. Everyone knows that if Mrs. Blocher fits one, the garment will fit perfectly. Faithful service to the store and sincere practice of its ideals are qualifications for membership in the Honor Club and the requisites that W. H. Wright, vice president and manager, bases his selection upon. The Honor Club was started back in 1930, when Mrs. Myrtle Dalrymple was chosen as its first member.

The Anniversary Assembly program was under the supervision of Miss Anne McGarry. The assembly opened with few words on the Anniversary Sale by W. H. Wright, after which a number of old pieces were played on the piano by Miss Julia Falbriski and the co-workers were asked to guess the names.

Mr. Wright then explained the features of the Anniversary Sale and each buyer was called upon to tell about his preparations for the sale. Little Miss Andrea Wright presented the store with a birthday cake and sang "Happy Birthday to the Store."

Owen Unangst, 1940 member of the Honor Club, pinned the honor pin on Mrs. Blocher and she took her place among the honor members.

Before the assembly ended, L. C. LeVan arose and, with a few well-chosen words, presented William H. Wright with an honor pin in commemoration of his fifteen years' service to the store. Mr. LeVan spoke of Mr. Wright's untiring efforts in behalf of the store and of his bringing it through troublesome times of the depression. Mr. Wright, in accepting the pin, spoke of the help he had received and the cooperation of the workers in the store.

After the singing of the anniversary theme song, "Jeannine", and the receiving of the official anniversary store paper, "The Lilac Times", the meeting came to an end, all enthusiastic to begin the Anniversary Sale this morning.

Taking care of the press, the radio and the newsreels, the special magazine writers, columnists and commentators is, however, by far the biggest part of the selling campaign. Perhaps it's incorrect to call this aspect of the work selling. Information spreading is more exact for the public does want to know what's going on and how and why.

In Washington alone, navy's press office has more than a dozen officers and army more than a score. Army Air Corps has its own press section, so specialized has its work become. There is a degree of censorship in the work of these organizations, as military and naval operations secrets must be guarded, and photographs withheld that might reveal information of value to the enemy—pardon, the potential enemy.

Office for Emergency Management, including OPM and 16 different defense agencies, has its division of information with a staff of 29 ex-newspaper men turned press agents to ballyhoo the show. It's so big, so complicated and it's growing so fast, it keeps this staff going overtime.

Prizes of $3 in cash or $5 in merchandise for: 1, the Largest Bunch of Lilacs; 2, the most attractive Arrangement of Purple Lilacs; 3, the most attractive Arrangement of Purple with White Lilacs; 4, the most attractive Arrangement of Purple Lilacs with Other Flowers.

The Lilac Marathon

If you have a favorite salesperson, patronize her or him during the Sale. You may help your friend to win one of several large prizes in the Lilac Marathon, conducted for salespeople during the Anniversary.

ALL Roads, North, South, East and West lead to Metzger-Wright's 45th Anniversary Sale which comes "Every Year at Lilac Time." It is the one time in all the year when all our friends from all the surrounding communities come to wish us well on our Anniversary. In 1896 the roads were all dirt roads and our friends came with horse and buggy, but today, the roads are all improved and our friends come in streamlined cars. There is a difference in transportation but not a difference in the good will . . . the same old friendliness prevails.

From the moment the doors opened at 8:45 this morning on our 45th Anniversary Sale we knew it was destined to be a success in every way. You came, you saw, and you bought. You came because you knew that here you would find big values as you always have at Metzger-Wright's. You saw all the many wonderful buys and so, you bought and saved many dollars. Nearly $100,000 of new merchandise was put on Sale. Merchandise especially bought for our 45th Anniversary Sale . . . at prices that can not be duplicated at a later date. We hope to see you tomorrow, and every day . . . to welcome you.

WARREN--45 YEARS AGO

(NOTE: This is the seventh of a series. Names in the news and little happenings taken from the Warren Evening Mirror bring to us in 1941 the atmosphere of 1896.)

One hat seen today boasted three feathers, two wings, eight roses, two clusters of violets, a jet ornament, and a sort of jabot effect in lace. Yet from fashion's standpoint it was not overcrowded.

—what would the gals of 1896 think of modern head-kerchiefs?

The soloists at St. Joseph's Sunday were the Misses Ella Dillon, Clara Masterson, Messrs. Joseph Gaughn and John Egan.

Some exquisite all-over designs in linen cost as much as $8 and $10 a yard.

On Arbor Day special programs were held in Warren's four school buildings. The programs included:
Arbor Day Tribute—A. F. Peterson.
The Origin of Arbor Day—Van Ness Yates.
Recitation, "April Showers"—Blanch Jackson.
Recitation, "Autumn Leaves"—Florence Bennett.
Chorus, "The Forget-me-not."
Planting the Tree—Eleanor Peterson, Roy Greenlund.
"Spring"—Mabel Valentine.
"Spring Voices"—Roscoe E. Knapp.
—remember any of these performances?

Sunday was an ideal Spring day and the livermen here did a lively business.

—Said the maiden with a smile,
"Let me hold the lines awhile."

F. B. Jackson, county commissioners' clerk, is sending out books for the assessors to register children of school age in accordance with the Compulsory Educational Act.

John Hoggblom was arrested Friday, charged with practicing medicine without complying with the proper requirements fixed by law.
—quack, quack.

The summer girl does not get up her wardrobe cheaply any more. Her gowns must be silk lined, and this means an outlay as great as in the winter.

—hooray for the shirts and shorts of 1941.

The 77th Anniversary of Odd Fellowship in America was celebrated with a Grand mass meeting held in the Opera House with a Fine Program, and an Elegant Banquet, a Brilliant Success.

Dressmakers and milliners are up to their ears in business.
—and the Godey books about worn out?

Mrs. Mabel Taylor. All enjoyed the various contests and games; also the composing of Mothers' Day poems. A delicious lunch was then served by the hostesses, Mrs. Gertrude Damm and Mrs. Mae Rowley. The next meeting, which will be the last until fall, will take place on June 2nd, and will be a tureen dinner. Election of officers will also take place at that time. Mr. and Mrs. William Wyckoff spent the weekend visiting at the Jones cottage at Bemis Point.

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Damm spent Sunday, May 4th, visiting friends in Kane.

Mr. and Mrs. Dale Meddock have purchased the Charles Blair house on lower Main street and are remodeling it. They expect to move into it about the first of June. Mrs. Betty Jones and son, Wesley, Mr. and Mrs. George Pierce and sons, Donald and George, and daughter, Lois, all from Harbor Creek, called at the Methodist parsonage on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Leo Goodard and son, Bob, and Mr. and Mrs. Frank McCain and son and daughter, all from Erie, were Sunday visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Howe.

Meet Public Demand With New General Tire

Rising payrolls and public buying power, plus the possibility of a rubber shortage, have greatly increased the public demand for first-quality tires which will carry them through any emergency that might develop. To meet this challenge, the General Tire and Rubber Company has developed a new first-quality tire to be sold at the lowest price in General Tire history. Shown above with two of the first "New Dual Grip" tires produced is W. O'Neill, president of the General Tire and Rubber Company. In Warren General Tires are sold by the Emblem Oil Company.
